Look out for the sleek tongued varmints that tell you the Advance is not the best machine in the market. They will tell you falsehoods that are not worthy of being called by any other name. The ADVANCE is guaranteed to do 100 per cent better work than any other machine in the market and is the only machine on the Coast that has NEVER been replaced by other machines. Other dealers have offered new machines for an ADVANCE that has been run two years, and have given parties to understand they would give [illegible] but were told that the ADVANCE after two years' run was still much better than old fogy machines when they were new. They [illegible] down, paid off and discharged all [illegible]. The buildings are all finished, the [illegible] stamps alone [illegible] set. Over 1,000 feet of tunneling fail to reveal anything of value, so now all [illegible] stop to wait for the [illegible]. The amount of wealth so far expended on this enterprise cannot be [illegible] here, though it necessarily must run [illegible] hundred thousand.

MARRIED IN DEATH.

A Girl and Her Lover Die in Each Other's Arms.

FRESNO, Cal., Aug. 18.—This morning Mrs. W. D. Jupper knocked at the door of her young girl, Elizabeth Verner, to ask her to [illegible] her breakfast. Receiving no response she opened the door and entered. A horrible sight met her eyes. There on the bed lay the girl and her lover, Andrus [illegible], clasped in each other's arms. The girl was dead, and Olsen struggling in the last throes of death. Both had bled profusely at the mouth and nose, covering the [illegible] with blood which had trickled down [illegible] formed a pool on the floor.

[illegible] the table was found an empty bottle without label, but it is supposed the bottle contained poison which the couple used for destruction. On the same table the [illegible] note was found: "We are tired [illegible] Best regard to our friends. We [illegible] how [illegible]"

IN SAN FRANCISCO PULPITS.

What the Ministers of That City Talked About Yesterday.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Rev. W. J. [illegible] preached a sermon on agnosticism at the Christian church on Twelfth street this morning to a large congregation. He [illegible] have been [illegible] known and unknown [illegible] tried to get [illegible] only showed Moses, however, as much of himself as it was permitted imperfect and [illegible] to [illegible] If we reject what cannot be proved we must overthrow many things accepted daily in the realms of practical things. One cannot even prove by logic [illegible] that lying and murder are wrong.

This morning the rites of confirmation were administered in the state prison chapel at San Quentin by Rev. [illegible] Kip [illegible] the Episcopal church, to twenty-one prisoners. The bishop spoke to the recipients in an impressive manner.

Rev. J. A. Cruzan having returned from his Eastern trip, spoke both morning and evening at the Third Congregational church.

The venerable Dr. Beers occupied the pulpit this morning at Trinity Episcopal church. A goodly portion of the congregation were visitors in the city.

Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D. D., is preaching with much force since his return from his vacation. He spoke this morning and this evening.

Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts of New York, field secretary of the American Sabbath Union, spoke to-day on "The Sunday Law," "Sunday Amusements and Sunday Work." [illegible] afternoon there was a union mass meeting for young men in the Christian Association hall. Addresses were made by Messrs. [illegible] Castle Brand and Alexander Caldwell, Scotch evangelists.

Dr. Burrows occupied the pulpit at the First Congregational church this morning, speaking on the subject "The Soldier and the Priest." In the evening was held a temperance meeting and service of song under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The address was by Mrs. Moore, an Eastern temperance [illegible].

Rev. Henry Melville [illegible] of Michigan [illegible] morning and evening [illegible] Presbyterian church, and Rev. A. [illegible] Cornelius, pastor at the Howard Presbyterian church.

Dr. D. W. Dyer occupied the pulpit both morning and evening at the [illegible] Memorial church.

At the First Baptist church [illegible] Rev. F. H. Gray, D. D., pleasantly entertained the audience by telling of his "Tour through the Holy Land."

Dr. Stebbins occupied the pulpit of the Unitarian church as usual.

SPORTING TOPICS.

The Halcyon Days of the [illegible] in San Francisco are Nearly Over.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—[illegible] here are beginning to have a fear that their halcyon days are nearly over and that they will soon have to go to work for a living. Should any such serious event happen to the average sport of this city, a [illegible] exodus would follow. The California Club is making preparations for the meeting between Dempsey and [illegible] from Tuesday night. After that it is decided it is thought there will be [illegible] many resignations handed in, as the sport is being so greatly overdone, a revulsion of feeling in the better element of the society has been engendered.

The Olympic Club directors have found it necessary to postpone their field day on account of their inability to have the tracks in the condition prepared.

In the baseball games of the California league the San Franciscos are in the lead by a small majority, the Oaklands next, then the Stocktons and the Sacramentos.

Yachtsmen have to all intents and purposes furled their sails for the season, as far as racing is concerned.

Until the quail shooting season shall be opened September 10 there will be nothing on the cards for lovers of the dog and gun but marsh shooting and the usual clay pigeon matches.

The subject of game protection is again agitating the attention of lovers of sport as it does toward the end of every close season. It is stated, however, that the law is being systematically violated, and that unless active measures are taken, the fields and streams of the northern part of the state at least will be denuded of fish and game.

FIRE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Seven Buildings on Fourth and Townsend Streets Burned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Seven buildings in the vicinity of the northwest corner of Fourth and Townsend streets were completely destroyed by fire early this morning [illegible]. The total loss [illegible] at [illegible] but when all damages are [illegible] up the amount will not be exceeded by [illegible] $10,000. The fire started in the rear of a one-story frame building owned by Peter Hughes and occupied as a chop house. In this building there was also a saloon. The flames [illegible] spread to adjoining [illegible] occupied by the [illegible] Next [illegible] story frame [illegible] owned by Merrill [illegible] [illegible] burned were a one-story frame owned by Peter Hughes, and storage with machinery and old fashioned locomotives used in the early days, a one-story brick occupied as a fruit store by Allen David and a lodging [illegible] J. Gilbert.

JUSTICE FIELD'S ARREST.

The First Time Such an Indignity Has Been Offered to the Supreme Bench.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—The arrest of Justice Field on a criminal charge is said by lawyers to be the first case on record of a member of the United States supreme bench being arrested in such a way. Older members of the bar say they do not remember that a United States circuit or district judge was ever subjected to such a [illegible]. In [illegible] it is [illegible] out of the line of the present case. In view of the possible culmination of the Sharon-Hill controversy by reason of the recent tragedy, one of the attorneys for Mrs. Terry remarked last night the case was virtually settled. The motion for a rehearing before the supreme court was denied on Friday, and there is another motion in the superior court for the appointment of a receiver, based on the petition of Mrs. Terry that the trustees of the Sharon estate are squandering the property, but it is not anticipated that anything will come of this last motion in the case.

CALIFORNIA VETERANS.

The Grand Army Delegation Will Be Small This Year.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—The Grand Army delegation from this state to the encampment at Milwaukee will probably not number more than [illegible] Grand Army [illegible] went to Columbus, the cost of the round trip ticket being $80. This year the convention will be held at a less distant point, but the tickets cost $9.75 each more, and only about 200 comrades will go to the encampment. In addition to this increased rate the rumors from Milwaukee that there was a lack of enthusiasm and general contributions have had a deterring effect upon the veterans.

THE SAN JOSE HOMICIDE.

Barry Acknowledges Killing His Brother-in-Law but Claims Self Defense.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 18.—An inquest was held this afternoon on the [illegible] George Harris, killed by J. B. Barry, at [illegible] yesterday. The men were brothers-in-law, partners in business, and occupied the same residence. Barry [illegible] and Harris [illegible] a native of Ireland. There were no witnesses to the shooting save the [illegible] was the chief witness [illegible]. The jury returned a verdict of death by a pistol shot wound caused by J. B. Barry.

DROWNED IN NAPA CREEK.

The Fifth Accident of the Kind in the Last Six Months.

NAPA, Cal., Aug. 18.—William McKay, 19 years of age, was drowned this evening while bathing in Napa creek, two miles from town. A younger brother tried to rescue him and narrowly escaped drowning himself. The body has not yet been recovered. This makes five deaths by drowning in Napa creek within the past six months.

Wanted at Pendleton.

SEATTLE, W. T., Aug. 18.—Detective Morris [illegible] to-night arrested P. H. McNamara in this city. He refused to state the offense except that McNamara embezzled $1,600 from a railroad company in Dakota and stole a horse in Umatilla county.

TWO ARTICLES TO BE FIXED UP

And Then the Washington Constitutional Convention Will Adjourn Sine Die, Probably on Next Thursday.

OLYMPIA, W. T., Aug. 18.—It is now the opinion of the chairman of the committees on revision, adjustment and enrollment that the convention will not be able to adjourn sine die before Wednesday or Thursday, in consequence of the backwardness of the printing. Colonel I. H. Cavanaugh, [illegible] who has been to the national capital looking after affairs in connection with his new office of surveyor general, [illegible] yesterday and will stir [illegible] his printing office. Had [illegible] been held as was repeatedly [illegible] it is safe to say that [illegible] have gotten through with [illegible] week ago.

[illegible] and granted lands article [illegible] are the only two matters [illegible] to be fixed up, and it is a [illegible] the former will get a majority [illegible] elected, which is [illegible] order to pass it. The democrats [illegible] to try to raise the cry for campaign purposes that the republicans of the convention have given away the tide lands. The [illegible] section of the article [illegible] in the teeth of that absurd statement, and [illegible] of the votes cast on this as well as all other propositions in the convention show that no strict party [illegible] any of them. Relative [illegible] the proposition to hold [illegible] for a long term of years before selling would leave the new state practically without funds for its common schools, [illegible] the enabling act prevents their disposal at a sum less than $10 an acre. Those portions which are to be sold contiguous to large cities will bring to the school [illegible] money, while in many of the [illegible] it will be a long time [illegible] $10 an acre. A Garfield county man made the statement on the floor that there was not an acre of unimproved land in his county worth that sum.

Judge Wingard of Walla Walla, Colonel W. F. Jackson and General McMicken are here. The latter, who has taken up a homestead [illegible] harbor country, says it is wonderful how that section is filling up with people [illegible] that Aberdeen and Montesano are going to [illegible] large cities. That region, being [illegible] the ocean breezes, has been free [illegible] the smoky atmosphere of the Sound country.

[illegible] General Cavanaugh will relieve Major [illegible] to-morrow. A. B. [illegible] the present chief clerk of the secretary [illegible] will be his chief clerk. [illegible] take his place in the secretary's office.

[illegible] GOSSIP ABOUT MEMBERS.

Francis Henry, the chief clerk of the supreme court [illegible] territory, is the soberest [illegible] state as well as in the [illegible]. He is an old settler, a lawyer [illegible] and has lived in Olympia [illegible] many years. What he does not know about [illegible] and claim lands is not worth [illegible] in fact he is said to be [illegible] ridiculous proposition [illegible] convention some time [illegible] lands among the old settlers [illegible] have [illegible] of claims as [illegible] claims. Although Mr. Henry [illegible] there are no [illegible] progressive ideas. He is a member of the minority party and the deputy United States collector of internal revenue [illegible] office he has held ever since Cleveland [illegible] to the presidency. While he enjoys the distinction of being the only [illegible] to the manor born [illegible] of the few democratic office holders who [illegible] allowed to browse around in the republican pasture, he is not stuck up about it, but quietly [illegible] and out from his ranch four miles distant, and once and a while takes [illegible] friends to a grouse dinner without [illegible]. He has been [illegible] session. Mr. Hicks resides in Tacoma when not on his [illegible] where he [illegible] the secretary of the Real Estate [illegible]

Ingersoll's Opinion That Terry Deserved His Fate.

MRS MAYBRICK'S CHANCES FOR LIFE

An English Family on Their Way to Seattle Are Penniless in Chicago—Gamblers Driven Out of Ogden, Utah

NEW YORK Aug 18.—When Colonel Robert G Ingersoll received a dispatch announcing that the friends of Judge Terry wanted him to come out to California to prosecute Judge Field and Deputy Marshal Nagle he said "I will not go. There is not enough money in California to take me out on such an errand. Why we might as well banish our courts of law if our judges are to be terrorized and assaulted for rendering honest decisions. From all I have heard and seen the justice has committed no offense unless it be one to be insulted. Money could not pay me to prosecute Justice Field in this case. I believe in a perfectly free judiciary. If the judge renders a corrupt decision the law provides for his impeachment. If the suitors who are defeated resort to brute force and the people sustain such a course then the courts should be abolished. An individual must submit to the law as administered and expounded by the courts and must seek his remedy within the law."

Ingersoll is an old time friend of Judge Field and holds him in high respect. He knew Sharon many years ago and has heard from the latter's lips what he thought of Sarah Althea Hill.

MRS MAYBRICK'S SENTENCE.

Reason to Believe That It Will Be Commuted to Life Imprisonment.

LONDON Aug 18.—There is reason to believe that the prospects of reprieve for Mrs Maybrick have brightened within the past two days. It will be granted if at all chiefly on the ground of the absence of poison in the body in any fatal quantity and on the conflict of medical testimony. The probabilities now decidedly point in the direction of a commutation of the capital sentence. In going so far Mr Matthews will provoke a great outburst of censure from those who believe Mrs Maybrick to be guilty, while it is by no means certain he will receive the thanks of Mrs Maybrick's friends.

PENNILESS IN CHICAGO

The Adventures of a Wife Seeking to Rejoin Her Husband

CHICAGO Aug 18.—Mrs Kate Curtis and five children ranging from 4 to 14 were found in the Baltimore & Ohio depot by a police officer to-day, actually suffering for food. They were taken to the Harrison street station and cared for.

The woman said that some years ago she and her husband Henry Magee Curtis were engaged in a prosperous dry goods business in Pittsburg. Without giving her any reason her husband one day left her, and being unable to hear anything of him Mrs Curtis sold all her worldly effects and returned to her native home Newcastle on Tyne England. A few weeks ago she received a letter from her sister in Seattle, W T, informing her that her husband was in that town and $200 was sent to bring the little family to the Western country. Three weeks ago Saturday they started from England, but unscrupulous steamship and railroad agents got the greater part of the poor woman's money and the family landed in Chicago last evening without a cent having been informed this city was Seattle and they would have no trouble in finding the husband father. Captain Lloyd sent the family to the Home for the Friendless for the night and will endeavor to raise money enough to carry them to their destination.

A BAD PLACE FOR GAMBLERS

They Are Driven From Ogden, Utah, by the United States Marshal

OGDEN, Aug 18.—More than forty gamblers have shaken Ogden's dust from their feet within the last two days the United States marshal's proclamation having scattered them like chaff. The edict was more painful to them from the fact that they had been in high feather for some months. Only recently one of them wore the badge of a special policeman on election day. A similar order closing houses of ill fame is expected next.

THE TREADWELL MINE

The Interests of Treadwell & Smith Bought by D O Mills

NEW YORK Aug 18.—Some time since it was reported that the celebrated Treadwell mine of Alaska had been sold to an English syndicate all of the owners including D O Mills having agreed to dispose of their stock at $16 per share. The consummation of such a sale was doubted by more than one of the insiders and it is now stated positively that there has been no sale to any English company as reported, but there has been a sale nevertheless, and the purchasing syndicate is D O. Mills himself, who satisfied of the great present and prospective value of the property, has bought out the interests of James Freeborn of Treadwell, and of George F Smith who was a side partner of Treadwell, and a portion of Colonel J D Fry's holdings, so that Mills and Senator John P Jones are owners of the property with Mills owning the controlling interest. Mills was very recently in Alaska examining his purchase. A local paper states he is more than ever satisfied that this Alaska mine is one of those quarry propositions of low grade ore that cannot be worked out in a lifetime.

NEGRO RAVISHER LYNCHED

He Is Strung Up to a Tree and Riddled With Bullets

SAVANNAH Aug 18.—Walter Asburg colored was lynched at Pooler this morning for an assault upon Lulu Kisn an a 17 year old German girl yesterday. She was terribly beaten in the struggle with her assailant but successfully resisted him. Her cries attracted a colored man who was near by and who rescued her from her assailant's hands. Asburg sprang through a door and escaped but in the next hour he knocked down a woman seized a double barreled shotgun and fled to the woods. In another hour the whole town was in arms and a posse in pursuit. About midnight the negro was found at a dance about a mile from the scene of the assault. He was taken back to the girl's house and she identified him. He confessed the crime and begged for mercy. Three hundred masked men hurried him to an open field near the railroad where he was strung up to a tree and riddled with bullets.

THE SAME OLD STORY

A Little Behind the Time, but It Gets There Just the Same

CHICAGO June 18.—Little two year old Sophie Schwab involuntarily became a balloonist to-day and was wafted high up over the broad bosom of Lake Michigan. A rifleman's skill saved the child's life.

The exciting incident took place at Sheffield Park and was witnessed by 1500 picnickers. An Italian peddler of toy balloons attempted to serve two purchasers at once and in doing so let go his string of bright colored globes. The cord got twisted about Sophie's left arm and also in her hand, and the buoyant bubbles started heavenward taking the youthful aeronaut along. The child's mother shrieked and fainted. The bystanders stood horrorstricken, scarcely breathing as the balloons swept close to an oak tree, and the infant grasped a handful of twigs and checked her flight. A muscular young German was ascending the tree in an instant and then crept out on the branches nearest the child. At this moment Sophie's puny strength gave out and the balloons suddenly released went again upward at least a thousand feet drifting them out over the lake.

Gust Kerch a sharpshooter who was attending the picnic with his repeating rifle hurried with two companions into a skiff and pulled out into range. Kerch succeeded in piercing several of the balloons, every successful shot helping the bunch to descend. Before it finally reached the water the boat was on the spot and little Sophie didn't even get her feet wet.

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY

For Which the Standard Oil Company Offers $2 000 000

LIMA Ohio Aug 18.—The discovery made by the New Paragon Oil Company of how to completely extract sulphur from crude oil is the chief topic of conversation among oil men here. The Paragon Oil Company has its headquarters and refinery at Toledo, where its refinery has been in operation but a few weeks and it has not fairly got into business so it has practically no good will to be bought or sold. The Standard Oil Company nevertheless has offered to buy the Paragon people out for $2 000 000. The refinery of the Paragon company cost $60 000 and it has invested several thousands of dollars in oil leases but good authorities say it cannot have invested $200 000 in all so that the Standard Oil Company places a value of at least $2 000 000 on the discovery that has been made. The process is said to be of the simplest possible character and the wonder is it was not sooner discovered. The Standard people admit that the discovery is the greatest rival they have ever had and that if the syndicate owning the new gas field in Kentucky and Tennessee get hold of the process it will be a heavy blow to them.

A BRAZILIAN STATESMAN

He Favors Close Commercial Alliance With the United States

NEW YORK Aug 18.—Lafayette Rodriguez Pereira one of Brazil's most distinguished statesmen has arrived at New York from Rio Janeiro. He is chief the Brazilian delegation to the congress of American nations which is to meet in Washington this fall to consider important questions of trade and international policy. Speaking of the probability of a commercial treaty being agreed upon between the two countries he said:

"It is not part of our immediate mission to make such treaty though it is not improbable that we may do so later. It will depend chiefly upon the position that may be taken by the United States. We shall certainly be glad to do all that we can to strengthen and stimulate commerce between the countries. It is greatly to the interest of Brazil that we should do so and that we emancipate ourselves as soon as possible from our excessive dependence upon financial markets in Europe. The people of the United States are our natural friends."

STATE WEATHER SERVICE.

Valuable Instruments Received by Signal Observer B S Pague

They Will be Distributed to Sub-Stations—What They Are [illegible] of the [illegible]

United States Signal Service Observer Pague has received a number of the finest instruments as have ever been sent to the [illegible] for the state weather service. The instruments are manufactured in Philadelphia and are models of accuracy and perfection. They have all the latest improvements and combine elegance of finish, durability and scientific exactitude.

The collection includes three standard signal service mercurial barometers for the purpose of determining the atmospheric pressure. These are valuable adjuncts, and the cost [illegible] three of them were purchased. They will be distributed among the colleges.

There are thirty sets of maximum and minimum thermometers all standard. They are self registering and give a daily record of the highest and lowest temperature. These as well as the thirty five standard rain gauges will be distributed over the state to the voluntary observers already obtained. Each observer will be furnished with one maximum and one minimum thermometer, one rain gauge and one measuring stick. It is especially desirable to ascertain the extremes of temperature and the rain fall of the state and for this reason as many thermometers and rain gauges as possible have been purchased for the use of the central office and colleges.

Five sets of hygrometers for determining the humidity of the atmosphere are compact in construction and simple in their modus operandi.

There are four anemometers to give the velocity of the wind and three self-registering attachments which record on paper the velocity of the wind. These are delicate and valuable instruments.

There is one solar radiation maximum thermometer. This consists of an elongated bulb and self registering maximum thermometer with the bulb covered with lamp black. It is enclosed in a sealed glass case from which the air has been exhausted. This instrument records the highest solar heat each day. A comparison of the readings ascertained from this and the maximum air thermometer is not only interesting, but valuable for scientific purposes. The difference between the solar heat and the heat of the air varies from 20 to 40 deg a day owing to the humidity, velocity of wind and cloudiness.

There is one self registering, terrestrial minimum thermometer used in ascertaining the amount of heat radiated from the earth. It is exposed from a brass stand, which is placed on the sward.

For the purpose of testing the purity of milk there are three milk hydrometers. Pure milk is recorded at 100 and pure water at 0. Mr Pague is desirous that the food inspectors of Portland and other cities will soon be supplied with these instruments so as to protect the people from impure and adulterated milk.

Then there are several cream gaugers for determining the richness of the milk and the value of the cow.

The ozonometer is for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of ozone in the air. Ozone is an unknown component of the atmosphere and is supposed to be an electrified condition of the oxygen. It is especially noticeable during and after a thunder storm.

The collection further includes ten sets of temperature weather flags. As soon as the necessary arrangements can be made these will be displayed from the flag pole on their building daily. They are flags to signify the weather forecasts. They are also simple and easily understood. For example. The square white flag indicates fair weather and no rain. The square blue flag indicates rain. The black triangular flag indicates the temperature and it depends upon its position with relation to the blue and white flags whether it is to be warmer, colder or stationary temperature. If it is above the blue or white it is to be warmer; if below colder. If it is not displayed the temperature will remain stationary. The fourth flag is a square white flag, with a black square in the center. In the East the flag is used to give warning for the approach of a cold wave. As there are no cold waves in Oregon Mr Pague will use this to indicate the approach of frost.

This is the first shipment of instruments from the manufacturers, Queen & Co of Philadelphia. They are worth about $900. The next shipment which will arrive in a few weeks will consist of barographs, thermographs, soil thermometers, self-registering rain gauge, sunshine recorders and other fine instruments.

There is being made in this city the shutters for the exposure of the thermometer. In construction they are similar to the standard shutter in use on the roof. On account of their cost only fifteen could be ordered, so that only a few of those observers along the lines of railroads can be supplied with them.

This is all new work in this state, and the result is that the observer encounters many impediments. For this reason there will be at least a few more months of friction and hard up hill work. The people throughout the state take a great interest in the work and in this appreciation Observer Pague can feel partially repaid for the time and labor he spent in piloting the weather bureau bill through the last legislature.

In addition to these instruments which will be distributed to observers throughout the state, Mr Pague has received a case of inspection instruments for his own use. These consist of a standard exposed a standard minimum and a standard maximum thermometer and an aneroid barometer, which not only indicates the pressure of the atmosphere, but elevation as well. Mr Pague will use these when called upon to test or repair instruments in use by observers at other stations.

THE "ELIXIR OF LIFE."

How the Brown-Sequard Discovery is Outdone

Judge Kallahan's Opinion.

Dr Brown Sequard the most famous living authority on physiology has made the startling discovery that an injection of the vital glandular secretions of animals into human beings rejuvenated the entire system.

While this "Elixir of Life" treatment is creating such a furore throughout the country, we must not overlook the new uses for the treatment of disease by electricity as demonstrated by Dr Darrin. For instance the case of Mr Cunningham. He lives in Wapinitia Wasco county Or and can be seen by anyone. His card tells the story. Judge Kallahan's case is no less remarkable, and gives great weight to the skill of Dr Darrin and his electric treatment. The following are reliable testimonials and should give scientific and thoughtful men cause for study and reflection.

Total Deafness Cured by Electricity

Editor Oregonian For the benefit of suffering humanity I wish to make known the following facts: About two years ago I was made totally deaf in one ear and partially so in the other so I could hear with great difficulty. I think the cure a wonderful result of electric treatment. Refer to me. J R CUNNINGHAM

IN THE FIELDS OF SPORT.

New York's Lead in the League Race Was Short and Sweet.

A Hard Fight for First Place in the American Association—Horse Racing Is Gaining a Good Foothold in the East.

The element of uncertainty in the league race is just as pronounced now as it was two months ago. It is a good thing for baseball, and especially for the league, that such a condition of affairs exists. The very uncertainty of the game is its most attractive feature. Without this element, baseball would not be what it is. The Boston team, according to the Boston papers, has had the pennant won for several weeks. A glance at the more trustworthy records to be found below will show that the pennant has not been won yet by any means.

The race down the home stretch may possibly be between only the New York and Boston clubs, but careful critics are of the opinion that the season is not yet sufficiently advanced to count out the chances of the Philadelphia and Cleveland teams. Of the four nines mentioned the Giants are playing by far the better game at present, and if the present work can be kept up the pennant will surely remain in New York. Even the Cleveland and Philadelphia teams are playing a better game at present than the high salaried Boston men. The present trouble in the Boston club, caused principally by the faint heartedness of the players and the peculiarly quarrelsome tactics of the management, will not help Boston's pennant chances any.

Since the Giants' visit to Chicago the chances of the Windy city aggregation have materially lessened. Anson is of course still claiming the pennant, and everything else in sight, but he has few supporters. Anson has an elastic imagination but a shrewd business head upon those mammoth shoulders of his. It would be about as surprising to see him win the League pennant with his job lot team as it would to see the Mets steal bases successfully. People who have seen the Metropolitans play ball lately can now estimate Chicago's pennant chances.—New York Tribune.

The New Yorks were in first place in the early part of the week, but during the last few days the Pittsburgs drubbed them and they are again in second place.

The St. Louis and Brooklyn teams in the American association are duplicating New York and Boston's struggle in the league. The question between these two teams may be endurance only, for an injury to an important player in either team might secure the pennant for the other.

The Baltimore, Athletic and Cincinnati teams have not been distanced yet, though the pennant chances of either one of the three must be considered anything but bright. The Kansas City, Columbus and Louisville teams can hardly hope to better their present position.

BASE HITS.

Van Haltren leads the Chicagos in batting.

The California league clubs are playing great ball.

San Francisco leads the California league in batting.

Wise now leads off in batting for the Washingtons.

Umpire Curry is becoming exceedingly unpopular at Indianapolis.

Tom Brown leads the league in base stealing. Jim Fogarty is second.

Stovey has made more runs this season than any other professional player.

Dick Conway expects to show next spring that his arm has not lost its cunning.

It is said that New York is looking for a third baseman to take Whitney's place.

Portland sees less baseball than any city of its size in the country. It's a shame too.

A Boston paper says that "Pat him on cotton" is a remark now often heard in Music hall.

The pitchers of the league have sent [illegible] men to first base through hitting them with the ball.

Annis is the eighth player who has been in the national league that Hartford has had this [illegible].

Sweeney, who has taken Latham's place in the St. Louis club, is holding his end up in great shape.

Cleveland is sorry now that Sommer was not secured. The team needs another catcher of his caliber.

Pittsburg wants to sell Catcher Fields, but the player won't leave it unless he can share the purchase money.

The San Franciscos have yet forty-two games to play—thirty-two on the home grounds, five in Stockton and five in Sacramento.

The Washingtons are badly crippled in the pitching department. Sullivan, of South Boston, has proved to be the worst kind of a failure.

Big Burke, who played with the Portland last year, has pitched eight games for Sacramento, in which he has given but one base on balls.

Dunlap has repeatedly resigned the captaincy of the Pittsburg team, but President Nimick has each time prevailed on him to reconsider.

Fogarty and Van Haltren have each reached [illegible] forty-seven times. Tom Brown has waited forty-eight times.

Some day an umpire will be found who will order Anson from the field. When he does [illegible] will be [illegible] for [illegible].

Pitcher [illegible] is content with the London [illegible] and he will have to report to Indianapolis.

Elmer Foster, who was released by New York [illegible] hit the ball [illegible] been [illegible] Minneapolis with the [illegible].

The [illegible] of the New York team [illegible] the [illegible] and snap to their playing.

Ewing was [illegible] of the game in Indianapolis for putting in an appearance without hose [illegible] as the Giants arrived ahead of their baggage.

Some one claims to have discovered [illegible] in Montana [illegible] a huge stone figure of a baseball player. A kind of [illegible] "Old Man Anson," we suppose.—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Paul Hines is the only ball-player who ever completed a triple play unassisted. The play was made by him in 1877, when a member of the Providence team, in a game against Boston. He was playing center field, with men on second and third. A fly ball was hit to short center. Hines made a fast run in and catch. Both men had started for home, and Hines, with ball in hand, touched second and third.

Here is one of Anson's breaks: "There is not a pitcher in the Chicago team who cannot run the bases at full speed four times in succession, go in the box at once, and pitch without any let up in speed."—Plaindealer.

Captain Anson is making a gallant fight, and is traveling toward the top at a Spokane gait.—Louisville Courier Journal. Five defeats out of six games played on the home grounds is hardly a "Spokane gait."—Chicago Tribune.

Manager Jim Hart says he intended to make a trip through South America, Mexico and Cuba this winter and lay out a route for two nines next season. If worked up in the right way Jim thinks there is a barrel of money in it.

It is probable that next year the North Pacific Industrial Association will lay out a baseball field in the grounds behind the exposition building. The location is convenient, and if good clubs could be secured the games will be well patronized.

It is often said that when things get to their worst they mend, and if there is any truth in that old statement we may expect the local club to improve daily from this on. It can hardly be imagined that the team can get any worse than it is.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

There is no player in the country who is more observant of the methods of pitchers and their peculiarities than Captain Arthur Irwin of the Washingtons, and he is worth a great deal to the club that engages him for this reason. He is able to signal in a great many cases to the batsman of his club just what kind of a ball to expect.—Boston Herald.

Anson is evidently the possessor of some kind of an elixir which by constant application will enable him to hold his end up for years with the young bloods of the league. In Pittsburg last week he stated: "I am not only the manager of the Chicago club now, but will be so for many years to come. I will be found in the old position, hiring and selling, fining and commending the players for [illegible] to come." Anyone who says otherwise indulges in nonsensical rot.—Boston Globe.

Latham certainly is a funny sort of fellow. After his collision with Larkin the other day the two exchanged some hot words at first base. When the Athletics were at bat in the next inning Larkin came up to the plate, and in the meantime Latham had cooled off and was in a forgiving mood. "Teddy," he yelled out, "hit one down here to your old friend Arlie," which so surprised Larkin that he had to turn round and laugh. That smoothed over everything, and the next time Latham reached that base the two men chatted pleasantly with each other.

The peculiar accident to Hamilton, the crack amateur of Central Kansas, is likely to put an end to his pitching. It seems that he started to pitch for a nine at Weir City against a team from Springfield, Mo. At the third ball a snap was heard like a pistol shot and Hamilton fell to the ground in agony. A physician was called and it was found that the young pitcher had, by the mere force of his delivery, broken his arm midway between the shoulder and the elbow. Accidents such as this have been heard of before in baseball, but they are very rare.

Ed Williamson arrived from Detroit yesterday morning and signed a contract to play the rest of the season. Before the game yesterday he donned his uniform and practiced at the lower end of the field. He is all right with the exception of his legs, which are still weak and uncertain. It is announced that he will play today. If he does, providing Harry Wright will agree to it, he will have a substitute base runner. He moves about and throws in his usual style. Whether he can dodge around after ground hits and run bases without getting muscle-sore remains to be determined.—Chicago Tribune.

Some men imagine that all it is to play first base is to stand on the bag and catch the balls that are thrown there. It was a fact that the lamented "Cub" Sullivan led the country on an average as first baseman in 1878 and 1879, and in 1881 could scarcely get an engagement. When Jim White was in the habit of taking him to task for not covering more ground around first base or holding men on at other bases, instead of letting them go and make sure of the batter, "Cub" would growl: "Don't I lead the country among the first basemen? Then why do you want to tell me how to play my position?"—[illegible] Globe.

As a sample of the expenses of a ball team it may be stated that Cleveland's 1881 team, in which were McCormick, Dunlap, Glasscock, Bushong, Daily and other stars, cost for salaries less than $1[illegible],000, and the present team, in which there are no stars, costs $[illegible]. With the same men under contract this season as played in Cleveland during 18[illegible] the salary list would be $[illegible]. And yet the tendency is to increase still more, because the price for $[illegible] towns is set by $1[illegible] towns. John Ward talks for the Day plan at every opportunity, but Ward is a player, and his interest lies along the lines of the Day plan.

Says Chris Von der Ahe: "I have never spoken a word to Hewitt of Washington on the subject and have not seen Spalding in years. If I was prepared to quit business tomorrow I could get thousands of dollars for the team where Washington and Chicago would only pay me pennies. I [illegible] with me because he is in my employ. I needed some one to look after the team on this trip, and as Ted was doing nothing I engaged him. He has been with the team before and will go with us to Brooklyn. I have no idea of selling Comiskey to Cincinnati for $10,000, as I have already refused an offer of $12,000 for him from the Brooklyn club."

If New York wins two more than Boston [illegible] two more than New York [illegible] August [illegible] will attract great attention [illegible] the question of the pennant will be settled there and then. If [illegible] not settled before that date Cleveland is [illegible] dark horse, with great possibilities.—Sporting World. Stuff and nonsense. The man who places at all this year's race being settled by August 11 does not know what he is talking about. It isn't that kind of a race. Philadelphia and Chicago are both reasonably certain of beating Cleveland out and may make things interesting for the leaders themselves. Neither Boston nor New York have a "cinch."—Chicago Tribune.

Hereafter Richardson will lead off the [illegible] batting list. He will be followed by Kelly, Nash, Brouthers, Johnston, Brown, Smith [illegible] and then the pitchers. It is believed that good results will be derived from this arrangement and the batting strength of the team rendered more effective. Brown has fallen into a rut of weak hitting from which it is hard to extricate him. It has been his misfortune to fail to bring in several runs in recent games when the opportunity was afforded, neither has he succeeded in reaching first base on any [illegible] more than three or four [illegible] Boston [illegible].

[illegible] doing some very effective pitching for Sacramento this season [illegible]. He has engaged the San Franciscos [illegible] and twice with [illegible] May 10 [illegible] to 0. On both occasions [illegible] July 23 and Aug [illegible] a single hit on balls. The fact proves the steadiness of his pitching [illegible] that has probably not been accomplished by any other twirler in the country.—San Francisco Examiner.

ON THE TURF.

By all odds the sport which is taking more and more with the American people is horse racing. It has been called "the sport of kings," and if by that is meant that it is the king of sports, Chicago people will certainly re-echo the expression, for day after day do from 3000 to 6000 people attend the races, and far from going off in public estimation it appears to be gaining ground the longer it lasts. There is always more or less talk at a race track about crooked work, and the fact of the matter is that losers are frequently prone to think that in some occult way they are unable to explain satisfactorily that they have been defrauded out of their money, the winners being correspondingly satisfied that the race was the squarest ever run on horse's merits.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Since Spokane's arrival at Saratoga from Chicago, Secretary Wheatley has been trying to arrange a mile and a quarter special sweepstake between Proctor Knott, Spokane, Longstreet and Long Dance. If Salvator is sent up there for the Iroquois stake next Tuesday, which seems likely, he also might be induced to enter. Such a race would draw an immense crowd.

It appears that the recent performance by Guy in 2:11¾ at Cleveland, was not a record after all. The fact that the owner of the horse was in the judges' stand constitutes by itself a bar against a clear record. Besides this, there was no formal announcement in advance of the contest and the presiding judge was one of the contracting parties to the wager. Guy's record is therefore 2:12.

Piedmont has put three in the list this year so far. Governor Stanford's patience may have been tried with the big horse, and a great many people have prematurely rated him a failure. But Piedmont is all right. No horse gets a better looking family, and though he is a great horse, proportionate, and his get are, as a rule, very shapely, and seldom coarse. The great campaigner will in time justify all the confidence that has been reposed in him, and in two or three years from now, when the Electioneer-Piedmont cross [illegible] the box where the conqueror of McGregor and Wedgewood [illegible] will have more visitors than [illegible].—Wallace's Monthly.

[illegible] Berzon has a new book in which he tells how he spent $1[illegible],000 on horse racing and betting in two years. He feels very happy and unusually virtuous; "happy" because he is [illegible] an immediate profit of some $[illegible] from the book, and virtuous because he has refused bribes offered by certain aristocratic [illegible] to keep their names out of print. Berzon will first bring out a half guinea edition and will then issue the book in popular form and price. It is rumored that the ex-plunger has handled the Marquis of Ailesbury, Teddy Martin the jockey, the owners Arthur Cooper and Johnny O'Neil, and many other shining lights of the English turf without gloves. He is, however, understood to stand faithful in their adversity to his guide, philosopher and friend, Sir George Chetwynd, and "My Jockey," Charley Wood.—Philadelphia Times.

IN THE RING.

Jem Smith says that he will not go to America, as he is doubtful of receiving fair play. He is matched to box Wannop for the best of ten rounds. There is plenty of money for Wannop if he wins, which is unlikely.

With regard to other branches of sport, the recent fight between Sullivan and Kilrain has had the effect of bringing the ring into prominence, and the air is full of fights and rumors of fights.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

California Dempsey recently added another to his victories by whipping Jack Farrell at Paterson in ten rounds. Farrell had the best of the opening rounds, but from the seventh to the finish Dempsey took the lead, securing a square knock down in the ninth and a knock out in the tenth. Dempsey is going to San Francisco and states that he will fight any one at 125 pounds.

Greek George says he is willing to go to England and wrestle or fight Mitchell, Smith or Wannop under London prize ring rules. George has good backing among the merchants of London and Liverpool, and will sail for London as soon as a match can be arranged. George and Wannop should make a good show at wrestling, but as for fighting, Smith would try the Greek's [illegible].

Pugilistic circles in London are interested in the visit of Slavin, the champion of Australia. He is expected to arrive at Plymouth [illegible] and will immediately challenge Smith, Mitchell, and in fact anybody in the world. The [illegible] are backing him [illegible]. They are being backed by [illegible] of money [illegible] Beach in all his races.

Eastern sporting men who looked forward to the six round glove contest between Jack Ashton and Peter Jackson, the giant Australian, [illegible] a good chance to judge of the latter's capabilities, have been disappointed, for the match has been indefinitely postponed. [illegible] telegraphed Billy Madden to let the affair go over for a time. The men may meet in September, and will undoubtedly settle [illegible] Jackson [illegible].

Jack Dempsey is training at [illegible] and takes a lot of exercise on roller [illegible] to strengthen his legs and improve his wind. He has had an attack of diarrhea, and between one thing and another has trained so far under disadvantages. He manages to do a lot of work for a man who is said to be somewhat off his health, and his admirers [illegible] with the Marine on the [illegible] for the Nonpareil. The match is causing some discussion in sporting circles in New York. An Eastern journal prints the following relative to the affair:

"Jack Dempsey has got to do some tall fighting to beat the Marine," observed Bob Hilliard, the actor, glancing over the head lines of his paper to the man in the next seat while riding down town on the elevated the other day. "Well, I will just go you any part of $1000 that Dempsey does him," replied the stranger. Hilliard, who saw the contest between Peter Jackson and Joe McAuliffe at the California Athletic Club's rooms, told the stranger sitting beside him that the Marine, whose fight with Mike Lucie he also witnessed, showed him to be in splendid form. "I thought," said Hilliard, "La Blanche could have beat [illegible] in three or four rounds sooner than he did, but he [illegible] when he saw that [illegible]. 'I am not likely to make that mistake again.' Dempsey did not look well when I saw him in California. I have seen him look [illegible]. I think La Blanche will [illegible], but I hope that Dempsey will win. He's my choice."

"I am glad to hear you say that," said the stranger. "Anybody who wants to put money on La Blanche will [illegible] and got off the twenty [illegible]."

Partial List of the New Buildings Being Erected in Ellensburgh.

Work on the Street Railway in Port Townsend—Pendleton Has an Efficient Fire Department—Notes From Various Exchanges

Ellensburgh Capital.

The new brick blocks now in process of construction and under contract are keeping the seven brick yards of Ellensburgh very busy, and it is estimated they will require at least 12,000,000 in their construction. About $750,000 will be expended in brick and fully $250,000 in frame buildings in the city this season. This makes an aggregate of $1,000,000, which is a greater showing than can be made by any other city of 4000 inhabitants on the Pacific coast. The business portion of the city, which embraces ten blocks and also includes six business streets, is being built up of solid brick, and when completed will present as fine an appearance as any city in the Northwest. Following is a partial list of these new brick blocks:

PORT TOWNSEND NEWS.

Work on the Street Railways—A Lime Schooner Burned Up.

Port Townsend, Aug. 17.—Workmen are engaged in putting in new ties in the Water street narrow gauge railroad. It is understood that after the street improvements shall have been completed this road will be [illegible] as a street railway. J. N. [illegible], who owns a franchise to construct a road on Water street, will probably purchase the line now being built. The cars on his road will be drawn by horses.

The motor line under the management of Mr. Dailey is progressing satisfactorily. The road is being graded through the suburbs nearly to the district from the place of starting. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible. About thirty men and several teams are employed.

The schooner Carrie Hayden, with a cargo of lime, caught fire yesterday [illegible] the hold [illegible] the [illegible] total loss.

FROM PENDLETON.

An Efficient Fire Department—The Coming [illegible]—Transfer.

Pendleton, Or., Aug. 17.—G. W. Hunt has purchased a half interest in the [illegible] for which he paid $[illegible].

About [illegible] people from Pendleton are camping at the mountains and will remain there during the heated term.

The walls of the town clock are crying for something with which to cover their faces. The hands will be here in the course of time.

Within ten days the O. & W. T. R. R. will reach Pendleton. The bridge will be completed and trains running across the river by next Thursday.

The foundation of the [illegible] block is nearing completion. The new structure is [illegible] feet. When the building is completed it will be the largest in the city and one of the most expensive.

Some fine specimens of coal from the [illegible] Coal Company's mine were on exhibition [illegible] which passed through [illegible] yesterday morning. Also some fine samples of building stone from the company's lands.

William Hood, of the upper Coquille, killed on the 8th of this month one of the largest bears seen for many years in this section. It weighed 640 pounds, and has been a great annoyance to the settlers, killing, it is said, about $3000 worth of stock, of which 300 sheep were from William Hood's band. This makes the forty-third bear Mr. Hood has killed since his arrival in the county a few years since, besides a large number of panthers and wild cats.

The elevator company at Grant have a number of teams employed hauling gravel and covering the sand for some distance around the elevator. The streets are being graveled so that parties hauling wheat or other loads will not have the sand to contend with.

Grants Pass shipped twelve car loads of watermelons last week, which brought in about $2000, besides the fruit shipments. Ashland places her income from her shipment of peaches at $1800. By taking these two extremes of the Rogue river valley it is plain to see that the fruit interests here are far from a failure as the California papers represent.

Lafayette Ledger: Some miscreant placed a dynamite cartridge on the narrow gauge road, evidently with the intention of wrecking the train. The cartridge was picked up by the bridge watchman and was already primed. A pin or match was inserted in the end of the cartridge, and if the wheel had touched it the locomotive would most likely have been blown from the track.

The Albany & Astoria railroad is finished to the farther border of the Grand Ronde reservation, within one and one half miles of the summit of the Coast range. The summit at this point is only [illegible] feet higher than Albany, which shows the great feasibility of constructing a road on this line. There will be [illegible] and less sharp curves on this than on the Oregon Pacific. [illegible] along the line are [illegible] friendly to the enterprise.

[illegible] citizens of Eugene have lost their lives by drowning during the past year. On August [illegible], 1888, Joe and Frank Farmer were drowned in the Willamette above the Eugene bridge while bathing. On October [illegible], 1888, Mr. H. B. [illegible] was drowned in the Siuslaw [illegible]. May [illegible] and little Mabel Smith were drowned in the mill race. June [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] and two children were drowned in attempting to ford the Willamette, and August 4 Minnie [illegible] and Albert Wilson were drowned in the Siuslaw.

HILLSBORO NOTES.

Hillsboro, Aug. 1[illegible].—There is very little sickness in town, and the physicians are having a picnic.

The ghastly wound in the throat of the would-be suicide Irish has healed, but he is slowly sinking from consumption.

A cannery is a matter of urgent necessity in this place. When the old schoolhouse shall no longer be used for educational purposes it would be well to make it into a cannery.

Two days ago one of Mr. Milne's teams, loaded with wheat, went crash through a bridge some two miles north of town. One horse was badly hurt and the wagon considerably smashed. The driver had a narrow escape.

House building is being vigorously pushed in this town, and it is impossible to find mechanics and laboring men enough to meet the demand. We want, however, men of push to come among us and start manufactories of different kinds. Such would be highly welcome.

Yesterday morning a small fire started in an unoccupied paint shop in the very heart of the town. Spontaneous combustion is the supposed cause. Two or three citizens luckily saw it and soon extinguished it. It is bad enough to have incendiaries without fires starting on their own account.

One orchard five miles north of here has sixty-six acres of pears. We wonder if even Yamhill can beat that. Talking of Yamhill, we note that Mr. [illegible], creamery manager, is engaged to superintend the one at McMinnville. So Yamhill has to take a lesson from us in butter making anyhow.

It is confidently expected that the Astoria railroad will have the good grace to join the West Side line at this town. Your correspondent has heard more than one man say that he would give $1000 to have it so. It seems as if there would not be much trouble in getting a right of way across the plains.

The bricklayers of Ellensburgh struck work against a ten hour schedule. The contractors [illegible] they will have all the men they want in a few days.

A [illegible] operation was performed on Mr. John Keller, at the Walla Walla hospital, a few days since. A rubber tube had been placed in his side to remove the pus formed by pleurisy. The incision in healing had reached the itching stage, and, human like, he began to scratch the injured part. While doing this he loosened the pin which held the tube in place, and upon taking the next breath the tube was drawn inside the body. It happened to be in such a spot that it went clear around to the spine. Drs. Shaw and Blalock operated upon the man this morning, having to make a long incision in the back to find the tube, which was finally removed.

In the list of taxpayers at Seattle, W. S. Ladd, of Portland, is down for $64,315, and D. P. Thompson, of Portland, for $40,800. The largest individual taxpayer in Seattle is A. A. Denny, whose assessment is $483,310. H. L. Yesler is next, with $410,865. The Northern Pacific Railroad Company's assessment in King county is $873,745.

The business men of Centralia, with commendable energy, are subscribing funds to open wagon roads to the farming settlements adjacent to their city. They are also reaching out for the trade of the southern portion of Thurston county, and with good roads may take some of the business of that section away from Olympia.

The Arlington Mining Company of Ruby are making arrangements for the shipment of over 400 tons of mining machinery over the Ellensburgh and Okanogan steamboat line, and will begin shipments in a few days. All this heavy freight will be landed at Ellensburgh and hauled by freight wagons from [illegible] to Rock Island, thence by steamer to Okanogan landing.

A careful estimate of the number of mechanics and other laborers now employed exclusively on new business blocks and residence buildings in Seattle shows: Laborers, [illegible]; carpenters, [illegible]; bricklayers, 234; stonemasons, [illegible]; stonecutters, [illegible]; painters, [illegible]; plasterers, [illegible]; total, 2012. The total number of teams so employed is 140. Laborers' wages are $2.50 per day; carpenters, $[illegible] a day; bricklayers, $6 a day.

The peace of the citizens of Spring creek, between Milton and Hudson's bay, has been disturbed for the past three weeks by a cougar, which has been seen several times by the women and children living in that vicinity, the men nearly all being away harvesting. It was first seen by boys, and from what they said was almost in the act of springing on them, but their screaming and running away saved them. Since then it has been seen several times by different women. The last time it came very near springing on a woman in a corn field, it having slipped up behind her, but she saw it in time to save herself. Its career is about to draw to a close, for all the men in the neighborhood have gone in search of it.

IDAHO NEWS.

Salmon City Recorder: An immense canal, four and one-half miles long, to be used in conveying water to the ranch of Governor Shoup, has just been completed. Twenty men have been employed for the past three months, and the estimated cost of the work is $15,000, and is intended to irrigate 1000 acres.

Wardner News: Agents who have been endeavoring to procure men for railroad work in Portland find it impossible to obtain them. A dispatch says 100 men left San Francisco on Thursday to be sent from Portland to work on the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company's branch into the Coeur d'Alene mines.

Hailey Times: C. H. Dewey, of Omaha, who is one of the principal stockholders in the Shoshone Falls Company, is looking over the twenty-six miles of ground between Shoshone and the Falls, with the view of deciding upon the practicability of a narrow gauge road to connect the town of Shoshone with the Falls.

The Fay Templeton folks on Pony gulch created quite a ripple of excitement by bringing to the Bank of Murray the result of their last clean up, amounting to 113 ounces of retort, valued at about $1400. This is said to come from fifty-seven tons of ore, which would give an average value of $24 per ton, without the concentrates, which will add fully $[illegible] per ton.

Caldwell Tribune: Two men by the names of Gray and Carter, working on the rock road between Huntington and Mineral, started across the Snake river in a boat one day this week, when the boat capsized, throwing both men into the water. Carter fortunately clung to a rock until assistance arrived, and was forced to see Gray drown before his eyes, calling piteously for assistance.

A GEOLOGICAL WONDER.

Discovery of Relics of the Glacial Period in Idaho—Extensive Veins of Ice Unearthed—To Be Investigated.

A correspondent furnishes the following interesting list of news relative to a recent discovery:

A remarkable discovery worthy of note and of especial interest to those taking pleasure in the study of the geological features and formation of our country is reported from the Pine creek canyon, between Big Bear and Fox ridges, in the eastern part of Latah county.

Upon an interview with Mr. T. H. Moore, of that neighborhood, we obtained the following facts: At an elevation of about 2[illegible]00 feet above the level and about 400 feet down the canyon, on the homestead of George Walker, attention was attracted by a very cold, chilling current of air rushing from the earth's surface from under a moss bed three or four inches in depth. The adjacent surface, six or eight feet distant, was covered with verdure, presenting no difference in aspect from the whole surrounding hillside. An investigation was commenced, simple in its nature, as the parties had no tools with them; the moss was pushed aside, a few boulders removed, disclosing an ice vein from one to four inches in thickness, another layer of boulders and debris and more veins of ice alternately appearing, the cold chilling air still rushing forth.

From the judgment of very intelligent men who have examined this curiosity, they feel assured that this congelation never took place from external atmospheric influences. Snows and frosts are [illegible] in this [illegible] and of the same nature as the surrounding country. This location is about three miles east of [illegible] postoffice, Latah county. Various and many speculations can be indulged in as to the cause of this and other peculiar formations in this remarkable country, so noted for geological curiosities. We have a similar formation of several feet in depth, forty-five feet under the streets of Moscow, specimens lying upon our desk as we write this letter. Can it be that the ice formation recently discovered are relics of the glacial period, not wholly covered by the overflows that cover an old earth's surface forty-five feet [illegible] where Moscow now stands? It is expected that future investigation will be made of the ice veins, and when accomplished we will give the results to The Oregonian.

WAGES IN SWITZERLAND.

An Oregon Man Makes a Compilation From Personal Observation.

Zurich, Switzerland, July 29, 1889.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

During our last presidential campaign, while the issue of protection versus free trade was the principal argument [illegible] in connection [illegible] the prices being paid in Europe for labor was an essential element [illegible] many facts appeared [illegible] upon which the campaign [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

In no instance is [illegible] provided owing to [illegible] amounts eaten, and as each laborer must provide his own, it is a common sight to see workmen with a loaf of bread beneath their coats going to their day's labor. And what has added to my surprise is seeing Italian laborers engaged on all public works and railroad building, induced to come here by the better wages being paid to that of their own country.

I offer these figures as a gauge to the people of my country, and to assist them to determine, if in future campaigns the question of labor wages shall be the factor of discussions.

Respectfully yours,

CORNUCOPIA PROSPECTS.

A Reporter's View of the Outlook of That Camp

Development Work Being Pushed Vigorously Ahead—Several Hundred Miners and Prospectors in the Camp

Baker City Democrat.

A Democrat representative spent several days in Cornucopia, the seat of the Pine creek mines. There are several hundred miners and prospectors in the camp, and when they are all rounded up as on the 5th instant, the Oregon Gold Mining Company's pay day, Cornucopia, "The Horn of Plenty," presents a very lively appearance. The miners who have toiled under ground every day for month in and month out, including Sundays, and who see but little of daylight, feel "like a bird let out of a cage" when the day arrives for them to receive their month's wages. They all come into town and enjoy themselves in regular miners' style. Their money has no strings on it and is spent freely. The scenes in the saloons on this day would remind the old [illegible] of the early days in California.

The mining outlook for the camp was never more promising than at the present time. The hundreds of locations are being worked by the owners as far as the money will go, but in most instances it is very limited, and consequently many locations receive no attention further than assessment work. The owners have plenty of muscle and are using it to good advantage, but everyone that understands mining knows that it takes capital to develop a mine.

The ore of the camp is all about the same character and is of that class which requires a great deal of machinery to properly reduce it. Considerable of the ore carries free gold, but the major portion of the value is sulphurets. There are several mines that have been worked constantly ever since the camp was first discovered, about five years ago, and they are no longer classed as prospects, but are called mines and are entitled to the appellation in every sense of the word. Among them we might name the Red Jacket, Simmons's group, Last Chance, Companion, Union, Forest Queen, Mayflower, Red Boy, Moonshine, May Queen, Wild Irishman, Estella, Comet, Monte Christo and others. These mines have undergone extensive development and are showing up well. There are many other locations that are just as promising, but have not been sufficiently developed to prove their intrinsic value.

It is surprising with all the mineral in sight in this camp that at the present time there is but one mill in operation, and that a 20 stamp. There is plenty of ore on the different dumps to keep twenty mills of like capacity running for months. What is most needed is a large custom mill with all the necessary machinery for working the concentrates. This would afford the mine owners an opportunity to develop their property, and in course of time they would derive a revenue therefrom sufficient to place a milling plant on this property and work it for all there is in it. We believe the day is not far distant when a custom mill will be erected. There is plenty of water, and if Pine creek was properly utilized it would furnish power for mills of any magnitude. It is only a matter of time until the Oregon Gold Mining Company will be running their mill by water power.

The first location visited was the Slate, owned by Bolles, Senor & Brown, which is situated about one mile northeast of Cornucopia. A 50 foot tunnel exposes a beautiful vein of ore, with the pay chute averaging two feet the entire distance. The ore runs $14 to the ton in free gold, with sulphurets very rich. This property is within sixty feet of Pine creek, which will furnish water power to run a mill.

The Mountain Gorge was the next mine visited. The location is situated 1000 feet southeast of the Slate, and is owned by Usher, Reeves, Bolles & Senor. The vein is five feet wide and [illegible] all the way from $1[illegible] to $[illegible] in gold to the ton.

The Comet, belonging to the Way Up group, is owned by the same parties. A twelve foot shaft has been sunk on this property, which exposes a three foot pay streak with free and well defined walls. The ore assays $1[illegible] in free gold and $[illegible]0 in sulphurets per ton.

The Way Up is situated a short distance from the Comet. The vein is narrow, being only eight inches, but assays made from the ore prove it to be the richest vein in the [illegible] tract.

The Last Chance is owned by J. P. Carey, and is one of the best mines in the camp. The owner of this property has worked incessantly developing his ledge ever since its [illegible]

PORTLAND. MONDAY. AUG. 19.

HISTORY AND FACT.

Several democratic journals have taken it deeply to heart that THE OREGONIAN, in speaking of Judge Terry remarked that he was a representative of the character, the methods, the purposes and the history of the democratic party. Because of this remark THE OREGONIAN has been subjected to much vituperation here and there. But they who deny the truth of the remark either do not know or have forgotten what the methods and purposes and history of the democratic party have been.

The editor of the Albany Democrat is a leader in this scurrility, but as he is a poor ignorant ass who knows little or nothing on any subject, and gets his politics as innocently as he gets the color of his hair his offense may be condoned.

Terry came prominently into public life about the year 1855. Under the lead of the South the democratic party was then making every effort to extend slavery and to make the slaveholding interest the dominant power of the country. No democrat could have good standing in his party who did not assist in this leading purpose. The pro-slavery democracy raised a storm before which the leading men of the party everywhere quailed and there was complete ostracism of those who did not obey. In both houses of congress the democratic party was dominated by bullies and duelists, men of the Terry stamp. The rebellion followed, and with the loss of its leading element from congress the democratic party throughout the war and for many years afterwards was a feeble faction, condemned by the country for the character and history which men like Terry, Brooks, Pryor, Breckinridge, Lane, Vallandigham, Voorhees and others had made for it. These are the cold historical facts, and it is scarcely worth while for any democratic journal to to work itself into vituperative fury in denial of them.

Terry belonged to the very worst set of the insolent and bullying Southerners who have ruled the democratic party and terrorized the country, who brought on the rebellion, stood against fair measures of reconstruction, and to-day keep up a bloody broil in many states of this Union, in an effort to nullify rights guaranteed by the constitution to citizens of the United States. With all this the democratic party of the North has constantly sympathized, and hence throughout the North that party during thirty-five years has been a minority and most of the time, as it is to-day, but a feeble one. This is the history of the past; it is the fact of the present day, and herein is vindication of THE OREGONIAN'S remark that Terry was a representative of the character, the methods, the purposes and the history of the democratic party. It was a statement fully justified by truth and history, and if there are those who do not like the historical record they should not challenge production of it.

One of the democratic organs inquires whether the democratic party is any more responsible for an assassin, like Terry than the republican party is for an assassin like Guiteau. Guiteau was a homicidal lunatic an exceptional creature, who from youth up had been of unarranged if not absolutely deranged mind. He never had brains enough to do any business, or acquire any influence, he was a daft creature all his life, and his absolute insanity and imbecility were proven after his death by the publication of his private letters written in 1866 fifteen years be[illegible] did all through his trial and upon the scaffold, that he was "God's man" inspired to action by supernatural command. He never had any politics, never held any office, never did any business, never was of any influence or consequence, but was a poor wretched, wandering imbecile and lunatic who was executed as a responsible being when he was really irresponsible and had been for years. No party was responsible for his crime which stood for nothing but the crazy caprice of a shattered brain.

But Judge Terry was a man of superior intellect and intelligence of strong passions, educated to boisterous and not seldom dangerous, murderous display of the social influence of slavery and the political practice of the democratic party. The democratic party before the war was the party of violence and outrage. It ruled at the South by the pistol and the bull whip, it brought its pistol and its bull whip into congress, and, up to the rebellion of 1861, ruled congress, and through congress ruled the nation. To-day the democratic party is of no particular consequence or numbers outside the South that before the war invoked the pistol and the bull whip to work its wicked will in local and national politics. To-day the South is "solid" by the invocation of the pistol and the bull whip of ante bellum days, and Judge Terry was a striking incarnation of the political and social methods by which the democracy climbed to power before the war, entrenched itself in power after victory, and behind which it fought to regain power after defeat. It is the Terry stripe of democracy that has made the South solid for that party by the invocation of Terry's tools, the pistol, the knife and the bullwhip, and the imprisonment of a Northern prize fighter for a year in a county jail of Mississippi does not obscure the terrible fact that if Sullivan was a Southern democrat he might carry an election by a "shot gun" canvass of blood and fraud without the slightest fear of being called to account by Governor Lowry. Sullivan is a ruffian but he is not a ruffian of local political usefulness and so he is made to feel the halter of Mississippi law. The democratic party South has always practiced Judge Terry's methods in politics, it practiced them before the war, during the war, after the war; practices them to-day and therefore THE OREGONIAN'S characterization of Terry as the incarnation of the democratic party of our day is true and it is a pity it is true.

ATLANTA AND CIVIL SERVICE.

The democrats of Atlanta are so deeply moved over the appointment of a negro to a position in the postoffice of that city that they have resorted to burning in effigy those responsible for the appointment. This inspires a state official to give expression to the following words:

> I don't approve of this burning of effigies. Of course I condemn General Lewis's conduct most entirely, but I think if he had been quietly ignored and the people of Atlanta had refused to recognize him socially, and so confined him to the society of the negroes he loves so much he would have felt it much more. And the opportunity would not have been given to the people of the North to make a suffering martyr of him. I am afraid the whole affair will be misrepresented in the Northern papers.

In short, this Georgia bourbon prefers the slower and deadlier poison of social ostracism, having the keenness to realize that the enlightened people of the North would be justly disgusted over such an exhibition of narrow, bigoted and partisan spirit.

The most striking feature of this case however, lies in the fact that the democratic party insists upon the application of civil service rules to the selection of officers. They claim Harrison will undo Cleveland's civil service achievements, but they are inconsistent enough to object to practical civil service when it runs counter to their pet social theories.

This negro, Penny, about whom this controversy has arisen, is a graduate of the Atlanta university, and an accomplished penman. He successfully passed the required governmental examination and his name was furnished Postmaster Lewis by the local civil service examining board. It is a difficult thing to make the boasted New South comprehend the idea that a colored man has the same right to earn a living under the government as a white man.

The Washington convention, and probably those of all the other new states, are trying their best to form some provision for the control of combinations and the prevention of trusts organized to fleece the dear people. Michigan has passed an act that attempts to accomplish the same result, and the very wording of it shows that it is almost impossible to restrain business to the limits and conditions public policy requires. It declares that all contracts, etc., that shall limit, control or regulate the quantity of any article raised or produced, or enhance the price thereof or prevent free competition, shall be utterly void. This is only a brief idea of the circumlocution used to frame the act but its very reading shows how practically impossible it will be to carry out its provisions. You can denounce something as "a criminal conspiracy," but it is always catching before hanging and it will be more possible for understandings to be carried out than for the fact to be proved to the satisfaction of a jury. It may be that Washington's constitution will prohibit trusts, but words cost little and facts are not so easily proved. If all the states pass laws in accordance with congressional action something must in time come of it and if a reasonable constraint can be placed on combinations great good will be effected.

Democratic journals don't like Charles A. Dana because he professes to be a democrat, yet dares to indulge in free speech and entertain independent opinions. It is strange to republicans that Dana can be a democrat at all, for his very independence shows that they have no place for him. A republican journal will be plain spoken concerning evils in the party, and there are so many independent voters and independent newspapers in the republican party that officials and politicians of the party are obliged to be careful and walk straight but democracy tolerates no freedom or independence and requires all its votaries to conform to party. It is, indeed, strange that Dana is a democrat and holds any communion with democracy, but he is a queer man and rather prefers contrariness to going on in peace and quietness. He may be a thorn in their flesh, but they will not be easily rid of him until he chooses to quit, and they can't hold him in checklines so long as he is Dana.

The records of stock speculation furnished by the July transactions of the New York exchange, is an indication that the era of reckless speculation is drawing to a close. The daily average number of shares dealt in during that month was 200,000, as against a million per day for about three years previous to January 1 of the year 1889. The public in general has about reached the idea that Wall street is infested by financial wolves; that the price of stocks is not controlled by the law of supply and demand; that a few men manipulate the market, and that the ordinary speculator who operates outside the ring has one chance in ten thousand to get out without great financial loss. This accounts for the decline of stock speculation, and a very good thing it is for the business stability of the country.

It has been charged that Carnegie the iron manufacturer of Pennsylvania is an oppressor of labor. This charge is made by the democratic press in a spirit of partisanship because Carnegie happens to be a republican. Following is the monthly pay [illegible] of Carnegie's establishments, the Homestead works:

	No. of men	Total wages	Average monthly wages
Converting mill	[illegible]	$4,61[illegible]	$81 4[illegible]
28-inch blooming mill	41	[illegible]28 20	[illegible]6 47
28-inch mill	12	1,109 73	[illegible]0 68
38 inch beam mill	49	4,401 25	91 85
119 inch plate mill	27	[illegible]12 80	86 08
	191	$14,064 [illegible]	$7[illegible] [illegible]

These wages are quite up to the average in similar establishments in our Eastern states and are almost double the English scale.

The substantial buildings now in course of erection at Seattle and Ellensburgh, and projected at Spokane Falls, exhibit beyond any doubt that these respective cities will not be materially retarded in eventual progress by misfortune or calamity, while the energy displayed and recuperative force exhibited have contributed in a great degree toward inspiring the capitalists of the East in the future of the Northwest. The newspapers of the East without exception have commended the push of the business men of the burnt out cities, and paid glowing compliments to the generous spirit of brotherhood that was brought to view by the way in which even the rival cities of the West stood by each other in the time of distress. No credit is asked for such deeds. It was simply duty promptly done.

Since the centennial exhibition of 1876 the electric light and motor industry has developed at a most astonishing rate. At that exposition there were three dynamos, and some few lights run by clockwork. Now there are $200,000,000 invested as capital in the electric light business, there are 237,017 arc lights and 2,303,718 incandescent lights and there are 100 electric railways. Moreover an electrical motor for the carriage of parcels has been invented which is said will travel at the rate of 150 miles an hour. And it is but fair to say that there are more small cities in the West that are lighted by electricity than in any other part of the United States.

The correspondent who recently gave the facts as to the McMinnville creamery told a sensible story and no doubt the reasons given were correct. If the Chicago company that built the creamery and furnished the man to operate it should have been made responsible in damages for sending an incompetent man to conduct the work. No man whose habits are bad, should be used to start such an enterprise. If that McMinnville company have won experience and can now manage the business with confidence in themselves the factory can go on and make butter and should be able to make money. We can hope for better things and they should not be long deferred.

The honest Irish Americans everywhere in the United States protest against the lawlessness that resulted in the murder of Dr Cronin. A picnic attended by 25,000 persons was held at Philadelphia recently, whereat a protest was voted against the crime and the sum of $1000 raised to prosecute the criminals. The trial of Burke and his accomplices as far as indicated will begin on August 26, at Chicago, when a strong attempt will be made to bring to justice the men who have outraged the law.

The Tillamook Headlight publishes a greater number of notices of applications for entry of land under the timber land act than any other paper either in Oregon or Washington. It is a fact therefore that there are more entries of this sort in Tillamook than in any other part of the Northwest.

John L. Sullivan gets a year in a Mississippi prison and serves him right. But if he had taken a shotgun and blown out the brains of a man who was preparing to vote the republican ticket in that state he wouldn't even have been arrested.

During this week the steam cruiser Charleston, intended for the United States navy, will be ready for an informal trial trip to ascertain for her builders what amount of speed and power she can develop. If the experiment is successful she will be submitted to the government for formal acceptance. To say that the states of the Pacific coast hope for success is not expressing too broad a wish for the success of the Charleston will demonstrate the ability of this coast to produce ships fit for the navy and the Western builders will be likely to secure a fair share of future contracts.

The South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club, of Pittsburg, Pa., has voluntarily filed a plea of "not guilty" to the allegations made by the Johnstown sufferers in cases that have charged the club with responsibility for damages sustained by the flood. The defendants evince an anxiety to have the matter determined. The cases beyond doubt are the most important in the history of the civil jurisprudence of the world.

A Philadelphian engaged in work upon a family vault in a graveyard accidentally got locked in. He began to laugh, but when night came on his companionship with seventeen corpses became anything but a joke, and so worked upon his nervous system that his black hair was turned to white. He has firmly resolved to change his business.

NEW TO-DAY.

TO BE GIVEN AWAY.

A handsome five room cottage with basement worth $1,800. It is a nice little home in Oregon, built by day's work. We have refused $20 a month rent for this beautiful house and have finally concluded that we will give it away to one of the purchasers of one of our large lots in the Third Electric Addition to East Portland. Twenty of these lots are 121 feet front by 115 feet deep and sixty of them are 50 feet front by 22½ feet deep. These lots are all being nicely cleared, the title to them is perfect and the price is the lowest of any lots now on the market, only $250 each, $100 cash balance in monthly installments of $10 each without interest. They are nearly as large as four full sized city lots.

The cottage is given away to one of the lot owners. As there are only eighty lots to be sold each purchaser has one chance in eighty of securing the cottage. The purchaser of each lot will be given a ticket for the drawing of the cottage which will take place at the rooms of the Real Estate Exchange on Tuesday, October 1, 1889, the managers of the drawing to be selected by the lot owners. A warranty deed for the cottage and lot (50 by 112 feet) free of all incumbrances will be made by the Portland Real Estate Company to the one drawing the lucky number.

This is no lottery scheme. The lots we offer are better worth the money we ask for them than any lots on the market. They are near the Waverly Woodstock Electric Motor line, the contract for which is signed and which is to be completed about December 15 of this year. The fare on this road is to be 5 cents to and from the city of Portland. The cottage is now completed and is subject to your examination. If you will call at our office we will take you to see the lots and the cottage.

Non-residents wishing to purchase any of these lots can send draft payable to our order for $100 and we will select a lot for them. As the lots are on an [illegible] about 150 feet higher than the floor of the Morrison street bridge, there is but little choice except between corners and inside lots. Sale of lots will commence on Monday, September 2, 1889.

THE NATIONAL BULLETIN.

Report of the Condition of the Eastern Weather and Crops.

For the Week Ending August 10—The Conditions Generally Favorable for All Branches of Agriculture—Some Damage Done

The following is taken from the National Weather Bulletin for the week ending August 10:

During the week ending August 10 about the average temperature prevailed in the Southern states, in the Missouri valley and Dakota, while it was slightly cooler than usual in the Northern states east of the Mississippi, the coolest section being the upper Mississippi valley and the upper lake region, where the daily temperature was from 3 deg. to 6 deg. lower than usual.

The thermal conditions for the season from January 1 to August 10, continue substantially as reported at the close of last week. The large excess of temperature which existed in the northwest states in the early portion of the season has been reduced as the season advanced, and the only sections at present reporting an excess of temperature are portions of New England and the middle Atlantic states, the states of the Missouri valley and the west portion of Minnesota. Over the greater portion of the cotton region the daily temperature has averaged about 1 degree below the normal.

There has been an excess of rainfall during the week generally throughout the south Atlantic and Gulf states, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, Iowa, southern Minnesota, northern Missouri and the eastern portions of Kansas and Nebraska. Well distributed showers occurred in all other sections east of the Rocky mountains, and in some sections of New York and Pennsylvania the local showers were attended by excessive rainfalls. The heaviest rains occurred in the south Atlantic states, where from two to four inches are reported.

The rainfall for the season continues in excess from Northern New York southward to Florida and in Texas, Western Nebraska, Western Arkansas, Northern Kansas, Northern Illinois and East Wisconsin. Over the principal corn states and the central portion of the cotton region the rainfall for the season generally exceeds 80 per cent of the normal, but there is a small area in the Ohio valley, extending from Central Tennessee to Northern Ohio, where the rainfall for the season ranges from 60 to 70 per cent of the normal. In Northern Minnesota and Northern Dakota, and in Oregon and Washington territory, less than one-half the usual amount of rain has occurred since the 1st of January.

The weather was generally favorable for harvesting in Minnesota and Dakota. Threshing is in progress in the southern portions of those states, and harvesting well advanced in the northern section, with a good yield reported. Some damage resulted from hail in Minnesota and Nebraska, and the light frost on Sunday morning in the extreme north did no damage to grain but injured vegetables slightly.

In Michigan, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri the cool nights were generally unfavorable and retarded the growth of corn, which, however, continues in good condition, but is much in need of warm, clear weather. In Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee all crops were improved by favorable weather. Corn is reported in excellent condition. Tobacco was improved in Ohio, but this crop needs more sunshine in Kentucky.

In the center portion of the cotton region, extending from Mississippi to Georgia, the weather was more favorable than that of the preceding week and the condition of the cotton crop was somewhat improved. In North Carolina and South Carolina excessive rains caused some injury to the cotton and tobacco crops. In the west portion of the cotton region the weather was generally favorable. Prospects are reported as excellent in Arkansas, and in Texas a heavy cotton crop is expected if rain occurs in the next few days. From present indications these rains are likely to occur. In New England and the middle Atlantic states the weather of the week was generally unfavorable. Throughout these sections the potato crop has been seriously injured, the fruit crop in New Jersey has been largely reduced, and in New York the hop crop has been damaged. All crops were improved in Virginia by the favorable weather of the week. Corn is reported in excellent condition in New England and was improved in Pennsylvania.

On the north Pacific coast the cool weather was favorable for late crops. Extensive forest fires caused great damage, but an average wheat crop has been secured.

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.—Saturday afternoon several little girls out wheeling a baby carriage in Sellwood carelessly let go the carriage while going down a road towards the river. The carriage rolled on with accelerated speed until it came to an abrupt embankment, when it made a lurch, landing on a large pile of rocks twenty feet below. Everyone thought that the occupant of the carriage had rode to certain death, and the mother became almost frantic with fright. On looking down the steep incline a sound healthy cry was heard to emanate from the spot where the carriage struck bottom, and on going down to investigate it was found that the baby was uninjured. The carriage was smashed into kindling wood, but fortunately it remained upright until it landed on the rocks below. The large pillow in the carriage had saved the child's life.

WILL THE ORDINANCE PASS?—A prominent photographer on First street having displayed his photos in a glass showcase built snug to the door pillar, was Saturday told to remove the obstruction (for such it was termed) under penalty of immediate arrest. The photographer went to the chief of police and to several councilmen to find out his rights in the premises and was told that under the present law he was guilty of violating the ordinance prohibiting the obstruction of sidewalks. It is reported, however, that at the next meeting of the city council, Wednesday evening, the city fathers will introduce an ordinance allowing merchants and storekeepers twenty inches of space on the walks for displaying goods and advertising purposes.

FIGHT ON A BARGE.—As the barge returning the picnickers from Sauvie's island pulled up to the Ash street dock yesterday evening several men who evidently had imbibed too freely of something more subtle than water engaged in a fierce fistic encounter that gave promise of ending in a general punching matinee. A telephone call brought five stalwart guardians of the peace to the scene, but even their presence seemed to have no discouraging effect on several of the contestants. They exchanged a few more vigorous blows and then the crowd closed in on them so that it was impossible to tell who were engaged in the fight. The officers made one arrest and cleared the barge in short order.

JAPANESE AERIAL EXHIBITION.—The Japanese balloon exhibition given at Riverview park yesterday afternoon, though not largely attended owing to the threatening attitude of the sky, was an entire success. Professor Doyle, the manager, showed all that he promised, and the spectators without doubt were all satisfied with the entertainment. Day fireworks are as yet but little understood on this coast, and they attract attention by their mere novelty. In addition to the fireworks a running race was one of the features of the entertainment.

YESTERDAY'S PICNIC.—The annual picnic given yesterday under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Division No. 1, was very largely attended and proved a success. The boat to which was attached a barge left here yesterday morning and steamed down the river to Moore's landing. Dancing was indulged in on the barge both going and coming. The excursionists returned to the city last evening.

ALBINA IS GROWING TOO.—Albina is making proportionately as much progress as her sister cities. There are no vacant houses in the city and 100 new houses would find tenants in no time. Cheap fare is in a measure the cause of this growth. An Albina resident can come to Portland and go home again all for 5 cents. The people of Albina enjoy cheaper rates of fare than those living in any other of Portland's suburbs.

THE BALLOON ASCENSION.—A large crowd witnessed the free balloon ascension on the east side of the river near the Jefferson street ferry landing last evening. The trapeze performance given in mid air by Professor P. H. Redmond was excellent. Although the balloon was in the air but a short time the professor was not idle one moment and greatly pleased the crowd by his daring feats.

BRING OUT YOUR HORSES.—The Multnomah Driving Association will have a race meeting at Riverside next Saturday. The committee of arrangements is desirous of having a number of young men who own speedy horses to enter in the running races. Entries may be made with County Recorder Dudley at the courthouse or at Magoon Bros.' stable.

J. A. PLUM, of the firm of McIntyre & Plum, the leading real estate brokers of Port Townsend, is in the city stopping at the Gilman house. Mr. Plum will gladly give any information concerning Port Townsend that the good people of Portland may desire.

QUITE A DIFFERENCE.—A dispatch from London, printed yesterday, stated that Rev. T. De Witt Talmage had addressed 3000 people there, and that he had but three large audiences this season. It should have read "but three larger audiences."

ON ACCOUNT of the great rush Saturday of $5 pants for $3 at Kohn's, the sale will continue for a few days longer. Take advantage of it.

REMEMBER for Monday and Tuesday Kohn will sell regular $2 fancy flannel pleated waists for boys at $1 each.

CAPT. SEBREE'S DEPARTURE

He Will Leave Next Month After His Successor Is Installed

Capt. Uriel Sebree, who has been the inspector of this lighthouse district for the past ten years, is preparing to start for the East. He has been ordered to his home in Missouri and on his arrival there he will receive further orders to go to Cramp's ship yard in Pennsylvania and go aboard the new cruiser Baltimore, of which he is to be executive officer.

Captain Sebree expects to take his departure between the 3d and 5th of September. He regrets exceedingly that he has to leave Oregon. The usual detail of naval officers to lighthouse work is three years. Captain Sebree's time expired last year and he was asked if he cared to stay another year. He promptly answered in the affirmative.

Captain Sebree was born in Missouri forty-one years ago. He entered the naval academy in 18[illegible] and was graduated in 1867. He was in the South Atlantic station in Brazil for three years and for two years he was the instructor at the naval academy.

Lieutenant Commander W. W. Rhodes, who is to succeed Captain Sebree, will arrive in Portland between the 20th and 25th of this month and will be shown about the district by the retiring officer. Lieutenant Commander Rhodes is 45 years old. He has been in the navy for twenty-five years. He entered the service as a volunteer in 1864 and was appointed an ensign in the regular service in 1869. He has been stationed in Washington during the past three years.

GRAND OPENING TO-NIGHT

John Cort's Favorite Place of Amusement Will Again Throw Open Its Doors To-night

John Cort's favorite place of amusement, the Standard, will throw open its doors again to-night after having been closed some time for renovation.

Manager Cort is a believer in expending money when his house needs it for the comfort of his patrons. Although his house was not in need of an overhauling when it was closed he thought he could improve on it. He closes all of his houses every summer and subjects them to a thorough overhauling. Mr. A. T. Cohn, a New York decorator, with a corps of assistants has been engaged ever since the house closed beautifying it. The sides of the downstairs lobby are covered with hand painted canvas and the ceiling has a beautiful centerpiece with a monogram standing for John Cort's Standard. The box gallery is clothed in white, blue, pink and gold, producing a very fine effect beneath the glare of the electric light. The walls of the box gallery are covered with hand painted canvas in light blue, looking very handsome. The archwork about the stage has been redecorated and on either side is a bronze medal in relief of Mozart and Shakespeare. For the decoration of the Standard Mr. Cort has expended $1800. There is a splendid blending of colors throughout the house, and the patrons of the Standard will be pleased with the change when the doors reopen to-night.

Mr. Cort has engaged a company of thirty new people to open his fall season. Chief among them are the three Eddys, the highest salaried gymnasts in the profession; the Dare brothers, who are too well known in Portland to be introduced; the Kennedys, bicyclists, and Haynes & Leigh, skate dancers. The last named dance on pedestals with skates on their feet. The rest of the company are all good.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. J. J. Hayne has returned from a month's trip to the mountains and left for San Francisco, to be gone six weeks.

Mr. H. S. S[illegible], formerly manager of [illegible] Collier's branch office in this city, leaves to-night for San Francisco to go into business at [illegible] Sansome street.

The Misses Ella and Lulu [illegible] are spending a few weeks' vacation at the home of J. A. Stanard, Brownsville, Or., and will enjoy a week's camp life with their young lady friends at Soda springs, in that vicinity.

PORTLAND LEADS THEM ALL

Facts That Prove Her To Be the Commercial City of the Northwest.

Our Clearing House Business Exceeds That of Many Cities of Greater Magnitude—Lots of Street Work

A glance at the tabular compilation of the business of the clearing houses in the United States and Canada during the week ended August 10 is sufficient to convince one of Portland's supremacy as the commercial metropolis of the Northwest. It is money that makes the mare go, and bank clearances have direct connection with the business of a city.

Last week Portland stood twenty-fifth on the list, New York leading, followed by Boston and Chicago in the order named. Just preceding Portland are such large towns as Cleveland, Minneapolis, Buffalo, Columbus and Richmond, Va. On Friday of that week the clearances at Minneapolis amounted to $[illegible],000 and at Portland to $111,000. Following Portland are Indianapolis, Hartford, Memphis, New Haven, Portland, Me., Duluth, Worcester, Des Moines, Galveston, Tex., Birmingham, Ala., Los Angeles and a host of others. Topeka, Ks., is at the foot of the list. Tacoma is next to the last with clearances amounting to $140,[illegible]. Portland's clearances amounted to $1,818,875.

During the week referred to Portland's clearances were nearly twice those of its Maine namesake, nearly $250,000 in excess of those of Indianapolis, three times those of Los Angeles, the largest second city of the Pacific coast, and over four times those of Tacoma.

And this is the dullest season of the year in Portland too.

Besides this and Joaquin Miller's description there is another thing which cannot fail to impress one of Portland's progress, and that is the street improvements which are under way in all quarters of the city. New sidewalks are being laid, streets repaired and sewers built.

Last week the city advertised for bids to improve Second street from Montgomery to Sheridan with washed gravel; Hood street from the Caruthers donation land claim to Grover street; Grover from Hood to Multnomah; North Fourteenth from B to U; N from Tenth to Fifteenth; Eighth from Salmon to Hall, and for a number of smaller jobs and sewers.

At its next meeting the council will act upon petitions for the improvement of S street from Front to Twenty-seventh, a distance of a mile and a half; North Front street from I to the O. R. & N. Company's boatyard, a distance of a mile and a quarter; Kelly street from Grover to Abernethy; G between Twentieth and Twenty-first; King street from B to the end of King; B street from North Front to Eighteenth; Second from Sheridan to Gibbs, and a number of others. The last named improvement will necessitate the building of a bridge across Marquam's gulch. Second street will then become one of the longest improved streets in the city.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, AUG. 19.

THE POPE'S FUTURE.

The government of Italy, through its prime minister Crispi, is reported in our dispatches of the 17th, as entirely willing that the pope should personally depart from Rome, but it would not permit the papal treasures the Vatican library or art gallery to be taken away This report is probably true, as it is in line with Crispi's anti papal policy in the past and is confirmed by the Rome correspondent of the Universe, the leading Catholic journal in France, who last month wrote that "the departure of the pope from Rome and from Italy has been discussed and decided upon in the case of an attack on the Vatican by the anti clerical clubs and the revolutionary mob or in the certain eventuality of a war between the triple alliance and France"

The military laws of Italy compel priests and clerical students preparing for holy orders to shoulder the musket and serve in the ranks This law has existed ever since Victor Emanuel occupied the papal states Against this law the present pope protested when he was bishop of Perugia describing it as "an axe laid to the roots of young trees in the nursery of priesthood" because it [illegible] interrupt the priest in the practice of his vocation and to prevent the proper education of clerical students The law was an effort to "kill the church by killing in root and spirit the ministry of the church" France has recently imitated this anti clerical legislation of Italy by passing a new army bill which raises the fighting force of France to three millions of men among whom are to be counted all students for the priesthood or seminaries This last clause was enacted amid the shouts of the radicals "Put the knapsacks on the priests" The purpose of this policy on the part of the Italian government is interpreted by Roman Catholic critics to mean a determination either to force the pope and the cardinals to quit Rome and Italy or in case of war with France, to hold the pope and sacred college as hostages, cutting off all means of intercourse between the Vatican and the French government and clergy restricting in fact to the limits the government may please the communications of the sovereign pontiff and his ministers with the whole of the Christian world

Minister Crispi's organ La Riforma is nevery weary of describing the pope as the most irreconcilable and worst enemy of Italy and the Catholic church an ulcer which must be cut out of the body politic" The pope is represented as the ally of France, plotting the destruction of Italian nationality and the restoration of the temporal power In Italy Catholics are not allowed to send representatives to parliament, and in France the majority in the parliament of Paris are as fierce foes of the pope and the church as the Crispi government of Italy Nevertheless the conservative French republican journals say that if France is ever again victorious in Europe a French army should restore the papal throne and maintain it Thiers is quoted by the Catholics as having once said that when a French army led by Napoleon III founded Italian nationality and handed over Pius IX and his states to Piedmont and the revolution France was raising up for herself at her very gates a worse foe than Prussia or all Germany" The anti papal party in Italy is inflamed by these reports to intense hate of France and the Vatican It is doubtful however whether France is likely to soon be governed by the statesmen of the Roman Catholic clerical party for really the great mass of influential public opinion in France to day follows the teaching of Gambetta rather than of Thiers The present minister of war De Freycinet was devoted to Gambetta in 1878-79-80 when that brilliant man with Jules Ferry and Paul Bert was pressing forward the laws secularizing the public education and suppressing the teaching orders of men and women

The truth is that the ruling forces neither in Italy nor France will ever consent to the restoration of the temporal power of the pope nor will Bismarck who has shrewdly used the phantom pope of our day as a tool to work his purposes hesitate to support Italy in her anti clerical policy And yet the restoration of his temporal power and consequence seems to be the ever present dream of the pope and his admirers More than one American Roman Catholic bishop has eloquently prophesied the day when the temporal power of the pope will be restored and Pope Leo recently sent an autograph letter to the authorities of the Laval university thanking them and the citizens of Quebec for the resolutions adopted by them and by the demonstration of April 8 last in favor of the restoration of the temporal power of the pope His holiness congratulated them not only on their [illegible] but on the [illegible] of their action [illegible] that the restoration of temporal power will [illegible] come The world has outlived and [illegible] the point [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] He is [illegible] well [illegible] by his keepers [illegible] provided [illegible] severely at times [illegible] temporal power [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] intelligence [illegible] [illegible] temporal power of the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] nothing [illegible]

PORTLAND AND THE SOUND.

A Nebraska Editor Writes Up the Country for the Lincoln "Call"

Oregon's Metropolis Accorded the Foremost Place in the Galaxy of Progressive North western Cities

Mr O A Mullon of the Lincoln Morning Call is one of the ablest editors in the Nebraska press excursion which recently visited Portland and the Sound While Mr Mullon was on the road going from place to place, and since his return to Nebraska he has been writing a series of letters in which he jots down his impressions of this country He writes from the standpoint of a cool critical observer yet the tenor of his letters shows that he writes with an enthusiasm that is born only of actual experience and a full knowledge of the subject under consideration The subjoined excerpts taken from different letters show that he was favorably impressed with the country and that his visit revealed to him the elements of future greatness in locations and boundless resources before unknown to him In his first letter he sizes up the city of Portland and makes a few observations on the salmon industry

Portland [illegible] Oregon's capital [illegible] land and Oregon City are the places at which the excursionists stop over to spy out the land The three first must be sufficient for this letter inasmuch as Oregon City will not be reached until to morrow In the first place the Portland Board of Trade drove us [illegible] about the city and carried the party to Prospect Height whence the whole of Portland and East Portland came into view The board of [illegible] agriculture's Resources of Oregon published in 1887 claims for Portland a population of between 41,000 and 50,000 If 1887 is any approximate measure of 1889 Portland is modest In the eastern part of the land a town of its improvement and of such apparent dimensions would not be content with a census of less than 100,000 and would be reasonably not absolutely—modest at that

The residence parts of Portland are

INDICATIVE OF COMFORT

Many of the old California miners brought their piles to the shores of the Columbia, and rested from their labors There is much wealth in Portland and the promise of more The newer residences are equal to the best of Omaha and some few in Lincoln in architectural beauty They are in the revived styles of the Tudor Flemish and Hollandische and their perfect lawns and glory of trees and flowers make the better suburban parts a garden of delights to the bye passer There is no irrigation The climate is genial and there is rain enough There are vines about the houses that could not be grown on the prairie In one garden there was a well grown fuchsia weighed down with bloom—a palm grown in the open air could be no better indication of climate Where the fuchsia will flourish out of doors there can be no bitter winds or fierce cold and no lack of moisture At present, and measured by modern caravansaries the hotels of Portland are only fair to medium, but one huge structure is lifting itself into the air built of brick and stone, and great beams covered with plaster which will outdo the Palace at San Francisco It is in pure taste while the Palace is bastard—where should be marble only painted wood This hotel is substantially Tudor, with modifications drawn from old styles on the European continent and the building suits the site The city is a place of trade and manufacture The salmon canning is a

MAGNIFICENT INDUSTRY

—let figures go by—supplying the world If the memory of the writer is correct the first salmon canning was at Aberdeen in Scotland and by the Moravian missionaries at Labrador and now the Columbia river is at the head of all sources of supply The canning is so great a matter that the merchants [illegible] to care little about supplying fresh fish to the interior Your correspondent hopes that with the Oregon Short Line and reasonable freights the Union Pacific will pour abundance into Nebraska and not only salmon but the crabs of the Northwest coast which many regard as of a richer flavor than the lobster though American epicures back from this coast might possibly have to acquire the taste of them and for them There are many indications of manufacture about Portland which your correspondent had no means of investigating He has nothing more to say than that Portland is a brisk and stirring city and that despite the rivalry of the Sound cities it will live and flourish

In another letter he devotes considerable space to the Sound and the placid Columbia river

[illegible] LAND IS THE SOUND

Country [illegible] country which up this letter shall include the Columbia—both being so much alike that they only wear their [illegible] with a difference" The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company take charge of us at Tacoma for the sound voyage and at Portland for the trip on the lower Columbia On the Sound we are given the freedom of the steamship North Pacific and on the Columbia that of the finest vessel on the river the T J Potter named for the late first vice president of the Union Pacific road We are treated courteously receiving all possible attention from the captains and officers These gentlemen have our thanks though they may never know the fact

This is mist land as well as sun land and rain land On the Sound and on the Columbia [illegible] voyage begins in the clouds The steep hill ranges on both sides come down to the waters and the mist on their tops and in their clefts alone breaks the long monochrome of pine and cedar There are distant mountains [illegible] weather [illegible] from a ship's deck [illegible] [illegible] passengers who [illegible] [illegible] from sight Your correspondent is contented whether on the deck of the Potter or on the North Pacific It is enough to mark the changing colors on the alluvion and gravelly shores of the sound and the scarred bluffs of the Columbia to follow the indentations of the coast the rounds that make bays and the bold headlands that form promontories [illegible] the broad expanse of sound and the [illegible] verdurous islands of the Columbia Yet two eyes are on the waters as well as the land Double duty must be done in [illegible] like this And the

[illegible] OF SOUND AND RIVER

[illegible] the colors of the tide the [illegible] the bar is reached of the current [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] sad history [illegible] [illegible] to make a clear passage through the bar will be of great a commerce the ocean [illegible] of Portland and the other river port Beyond the head [illegible] is the mighty Pacific We see going into Ilwaco, the surf coming over the bar but it is too distant to estimate its power The party passes a headland by a local railway and scatters on a long beach said to extend along the shore, firm sand for thirty miles Your correspondent for thirty minutes

FACES THE GRAND PACIFIC

Ocean He looks to the east and to the south, with which a rich commerce may be He watches the tide come in—the fierce surf, and the strong waves He is native to the sight and sound It is enough for the time is ended before the tide—it is enough for him for there is a memory that will last, and so back to the T J Potter the kindly reception aboard satisfying supper at the ship's table, and sleep in a ship's cabin at the wharf till morning After the Sound voyage the Victorians carried the party round to the show places of the city the chief we saw being Esquimalt harbor—a wooded lake like inlet from the ocean—quiet and still and as charming in its peaceful beauty as the Pacific is grand If the one was the crown of our voyaging the other was its floral chaplet The British war vessel Champion lay in the roadstead close to the land and the party inspected her trim appointments and warlike array However, as to the details of a visit to a war ship your columns shall not be burdened There was a return journey to Portland both on the river and Sound and in each case the travel was by day Again the panorama was unrolled and as towards mid day the fogs cleared off there were manifold views of the mountains

[illegible]

Of the Sound country Not at all statistics are plentiful enough—statistics [illegible] ways to be taken with the prescribed grain of table salt and this made who [illegible] —for all who need them Wherefore seek them elsewhere in so much as for you correspondent on so brief a visit to essay the task would only be another instance of the blind leading the blind into a ditch It may be that in this great country there is no economic ditch into which the blind can fall but knowing himself to be of the blind, he declines to take the chances of becoming a leader On the Sound Seattle Tacoma, Port Townsend—an important clearing station for vessels outward bound and Victoria and on the river Portland and Astoria They have each an actuality and each a possibility after its kind

PORTLAND RANKS FIRST

It commands the trade of all and will so continue Seattle and Tacoma the latter second in the race and aiming to be first, Astoria relegated largely to its salmon trade with good chances in lumber and Victoria long staying, a slow—let the Victorians be aware of what they appear to call the Jew trade"—which is shrewd and enterprising, and which would like to command the advantages of their world harbor

Why what a magnificent land is this—a country fitted to make strong the arm put electricity into the nerve and fire into the soul of the dweller therein The salmon of the rivers the halibut and cod of the seas, the lumber of the hills and mountains the coal and unworked mineral veins the varied fruits of the orchards coming in season and every season the wheat, barley oats hops flax and hay of the valleys and the sheep cattle and horses in the pastures and on the hillsides This is a country where men may not only gather to themselves the produce of their own soil and waters but also, if they will, share in the wealth of distant parts of the earth, being their own merchants and mariners

But farewell—in the literal sense of the word—great Northwest For five days we floated on thy waters—within two days as long as from Sandy Hook to Fastnet now we are homeward bound—farewell

AN HONEST LAD

Hubert Menth Has a Chance to Steal but Rightfully Refuses to Do So.

A few minutes before the train left for the Sound Saturday afternoon a man rushed up to the baggage master and made arrangements for the checking of his trunk the purchase of his ticket and transacted other business He took out his wallet to pay for some service and in doing so dropped a $10 bill which was picked up [illegible] little newsboy a few moments later

As the time for the departure of the train approached the man missed his bill and turned around considerably attracting a great deal of attention He offered $1 to any one who would return the bill, supposing that he had been robbed He stated his case to Officer Thomas Belcher among others The attention of one of the many little newsboys who were busily engaged in disposing of their papers was attracted by the man and on approaching nearer heard him say that he had lost his money

"Is this your money sir" asked the little fellow producing the bill

"Yes" answered the man "It is Here is 50 cents for you"

Mr Belcher overheard the conversation and thought that the boy's honesty should be better rewarded Finally the man handed the lad $2

Mr Belcher then turned to the boy and told him that it was a very honest and manly thing for him to do when he could have stolen the money just as well as not

"Yes I could have stolen the money but I once knew a little boy who got himself into trouble by doing such a thing" was the honest little fellow answer as he made for a man that looked as though he might want a paper

The newsboy's name is Hubert Menth

WHAT ARE SWAMP LANDS?

Can Rimrock Hills and Rolling Country Rise From Swamps?

A Claim That Dams Were Built in Order to Manufacture Swamp Lands in Southeastern Oregon

BURNS Harney Co Or Aug 10, 1889

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I notice in your issue of the 5th inst you publish what purports to have been said by some well informed gentleman

The well informed gentleman in question does not seem to know when the swamp land law was passed and is equally ignorant of every other statement he made This well informed gentleman says "Where these people who attempt to take up such land make a great mistake is in thinking that because land is not swampy now it never has been

In the above statement this well informed gentleman is also in error This country is settled up by an intelligent people who will compare favorably with any community on the Pacific slope and know that it is not a question as to what the nature of the soil is [illegible] but what it was on the 12th day of March 1860 and not 1862 as the well informed gentleman says The learned gentleman says "During the twenty seven years since the passage of that act great changes have come over the face of the country"

Admitting such to be the case I would like to ask this well informed gentleman if in a short space of twenty seven years rimrock hills and rolling country will rise up out of swamps? Is it reasonable to suppose that where sagebrush is ten to [illegible] inches in diameter now land was swamp twenty seven years ago?

Is it reasonable to think for a single moment that where farmers now have great waving fields of grain on the rolling prairies was twenty seven years ago a swamp? I would like to ask the learned gentleman why it is that it was necessary for the swamp land claimants to fill up the river that runs through these so called swamp lands in order that it should overflow its banks in order to irrigate the swamp?

When the proper time arrives all these things will be shown by actual evidence A chain of evidence will be introduced reaching from 1845 to the present time showing that during all the above time there never was any swamp land in the Harney valley until after the country was overflowed by dams placed in the river by swamp land claimants, for the purpose of making swamp land

This well informed gentleman should give his name in order that it may be seen that he is now or has been in the employ of the swamp land claimants

The unknown gentleman in question says "The swamp land act applied to the lands as they were then and what they may be now has nothing to do with the case and those who while crying fraud attempt to rob the swamp land man of what he honestly bought should remember this

What an idea, a settler rob a swamp land claimant? As well say a fly would rob an elephant of his food Does this gentleman who seems so interested in the welfare of the swamp land claimants pretend to intimate that there was no fraud practiced on the people when this so called swamp land was selected?

Now I want to ask this mysterious gentleman if the swamp filings made by Hon Owens show honesty of purpose? The filings referred to describe the land as follows Situated in Grant county Oregon lying between a hill or mountain known as Beaty's butte and Stein mountain and a road crossing Jake Warner at Crook's bridge and leading to Camp Alvord and on or about the parallel of 42 [illegible] north latitude and the 119th degree of longitude west of Greenwich containing the quantity of 40,000 acres That any resident of Oregon ever saw this 40,000 acres swamp in Grant county? If the so called swamp land in Oregon were honestly selected and held in [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] indicted by the United States [illegible] [illegible] of the statute of limitation [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.

A County in Michigan Where Farmers Have Their Own Telegraph Lines.

Gophers and Rats—What Farmers Can Do—The Most Oppressive Tax of All—Feeding Farm Horses—Small Fruits

A correspondent of the Ohio Farmer gives the world startling information concerning the march of progress in his county where the farmers have their own telegraph lines and even the small children know how to manipulate the keys He says

We have something here in Lenawee county with which farmers generally are not familiar It is a farmer's telegraph line not one of them but three The one known as the Commercial Telegraph Line is the old est and longest It organized under a state charter, and runs through Holloway Tecumseh, Clinton and to Adrian Mich and together with its looping back and forth to farmers' houses contains about seventy five miles of wire The line goes into about seventy five different dwellings stores and postoffices where the farmers do most of their trading It also runs into three depots in the country two central telephone offices and a number of doctors offices On the line are about 175 operators The line has been built and is owned by the farmers who have the use of it The line is under the care of a manager elected at the annual meeting of stockholders and money for keeping their line in repair is raised by a tax on the shares owned by the stockholders The expense of building was light and the tax has never been over $2 a year for each instrument There are from one to four operators in every house consisting mostly of the younger members of the family, even the children taking hold of it and becoming expert in a short time It is easy to learn, all except old people getting so they can use it in a few weeks

Farmers, you do not know neither can you imagine what it is worth to be connected with your neighbors and the towns in your county by means of a telegraph wire You probably think you would rather have the telephone but that is a mistake With the telephone you know little of what is going on around you but with the telegraph you have all that is said and it brings the farmers around one's hearthstone as it were If I were to name the uses to which the line is put it would fill a column If its true worth could be understood every farmer in this broad land would have one before the summer is out It is to those that have it, like the binder the clock or the sewing machine They wonder how anyone ever got along without it You may think I am putting this pretty strong but those along our line would part with their clocks or their self binders quite as quick as they now would with their telegraph There are two other lines running through Tecumseh one known as the Ridgeway and Britton and the other as the Macon line All three lines are growing very fast and it will not be long before this whole country will be a net work of wires connecting the farmers with one another and with the various towns

WHAT FARMERS CAN DO

A farmer sends us the following paragraphs which he says should be kept constantly before the farmers until they begin to have a better realization of their power

They have ten votes to seven of all other occupations

They have votes enough to carry any election

They can put an end to the extortions of any corporation or combination that affects them

They can put ten farmers into congress and their state legislature for every one now there

They can make their own laws in all states and territories

They can secure the same payment per hour for hard work that is demanded by brain work

They can have all the comforts and luxuries now enjoyed by the classes that prey upon them

They can combine themselves into a compact body and act

They can co-operate—they can stand by one another and thus rule the world—or

They can continue to be the quiet drudges they have been the prey of every cunning politician, speculator and sharper in the land

Trusts multiply, but I have not yet noticed that the farmers have a wheat trust," writes ex Governor Pierce "If they would organize limit production, lock up their granaries and go a fishing think of the number of gentlemen with gold chains and big stomachs who would soon be running frantically around the commercial exchanges of Chicago and New York in wild despair 'The hand that holds the bread' is the hand of iron, and the hand of the dictator when ever the owner choose that it shall be so '— Farm, Stock and Home

THE MOST OPPRESSIVE TAX OF ALL.

Most of us put upon ourselves the tax that is most burdensome and it is one that can be largely avoided In the Country Gentleman Waldo F Brown discourses upon it so soundly that we publish his remarks He says

There is one kind of indirect taxes of which many farmers pay more than they do of the regular tax and that is by buying goods on credit buying in small quantities and buying articles which they could do without. The very fact that one can purchase without money has a tendency to make a man buy articles which he would do without if he must pay cash down for them, and he must expect also to pay more for goods if the account is to go onto the book to stand for an indefinite time than if he were paying cash I do not wish to discourage the patronizing of home industries, and I recognize the necessity and value of the middleman yet I know that there are many places where farmers are made to pay enormous profits on what they buy, and I believe they should not submit to injustice In my town some years ago the grocers agreed together that they would not pay above $1 for a dressed turkey and as dressed turkeys were bringing 9 cents a pound the man with a turkey weighing fifteen to twenty pounds would get no more than the one whose fowls weighed eleven pounds A proper resentment and an assurance that we would not trade a dollar with these men until this rule was set aside soon brought them to terms I believe it to be the privilege and duty of the intelligent farmer to post himself on the cost of every article he needs to use in his business and family and when he finds that his home merchants are charging exorbitant profits to buy where he can get goods cheapest For example, my harness dealer asked me $10 for a pair of carriage bridles and collars and I thought it too much and went to a manufacturer in the city and got the same for less than $5

I know that this question of building up our own town and helping out our community is worthy of our consideration but it has two sides to it and the farmer is often treated unjustly partly because he buys on credit and largely because he does not know the cost of articles he must buy and that his indirect taxes paid in this way are enormous I advise farmers either to get justice from their home merchants or refuse to trade with them

BREEDING HORSES THAT WILL ALWAYS SELL

A writer in the Prairie Farmer says While it is true that no man has a patent on horse-breeding yet, it seems to be true of some men that observation has taught them just what kind of horses will always sell and an innate taste enables them to breed to this standard or rather to any particular standard they may have espoused The machinist soon learns the exact wants of his customers, while at the same time he can more nearly work to the model the public demands than can the average horse breeder This is true partly because of the variable nature of the stock he, the breeder, handles but yet in a large degree from the common failure to secure uniform material to work with we may not reasonably expect a uniform product

When we breed from a horse that interferes, cutting himself no matter how carefully and skilfully shod over reaches straddles behind when in motion has an excess of knee action or, on the other hand too little, stumbles carries low forward and holds his tail between his haunches shows want of action in going and in a general way, want of sense, no sensible man would expect other than a duplication of a portion or these faults combined Yet after all our boasted enterprise with good material with in reach—if not near at hand at any rate within such distance as will pay well for the seeking too many farmers retain the ordinary unsalable mares for breeding and having done this, reason most naturally that it will not pay to go far out of the way to secure a valuable [illegible] are neither are they warranted in expending much money in the payment of a fee

The outcome of all this is that perfection is reached almost never while on the other hand the horse of ordinary quality is found the [illegible] are around over the land Some trotting and running horses have [illegible] defects when tried by the standard sure to be popular with the public Many specimens are ill shaped heads large withers low legs long carriage low hind quarter drooping [illegible] and temper bad Under such an arrangement it is readily seen that they are in no sense marketable But with these defects of contour if their mirage of high rate of speed can be shown this one quality will cover a multitude of faults and they are wanted for their speed alone—the time they can make on the track being the essence and pretty nearly the only criterion of value

Horses possessed of springing graceful action and of exquisite form are so exceedingly rare that it almost looks as though no farmer or breeder were trying to produce this kind There are in the cities many mares that are entirely competent to be the dams of the high styled animal to which we refer yet more tempting figures have drawn these from the country where they should have remained Action atones for many defects and hides others for it is well known to horsemen some horses that are not up to the highest requirements in contour are nevertheless attractive when in motion The inert machinery when the fire is out and the belts are off may look tame indeed yet with the firebox hot and all the movable parts in action the whole thing is transformed into a precise and graceful moving thing It is the same is strictly true of the horse having agile springing action with graceful carriage of head and tail for regarding the latter appendage it is a [illegible] belief what a figure this merely ornamental appendage cuts in the attractiveness and selling value of a horse provided it be large and is gracefully carried

It is not strictly the things in sight that govern the action in the horse as there are peculiarities of formation hidden away and comprised in the deep seated muscles the formation and attachments of which [illegible] graceful or on the contrary ungainly action upon the animal If the latter then what passes for his gaits are disjointed ungainly efforts He may appear respectable as a horse while at rest but in action is anything but pleasant to look upon and his selling value is low The muscles that put the limb forward and again those that put it back are fixed part of the mechanism and while under certain severe forms of restraint the action of these may be in a slight measure improved Still it is better that the horse be rightly constructed at the outset especially as it is as easy to breed one sort as the other when you know how and will use proper industry in that direction Precision and vigor of step regularity in action equal to the revolution of the wheels of a locomotive are among the best selling qualities of a horse and these are attainable as are the other qualities referred to by breeding, for them

CHARGED TO OREGON

The Journal of Agriculture published at St Louis contains the following which it claims was taken from an Oregon newspaper Its tone indicates that it was written by some army officer but if there is a word of truth in its assertions applicable to Oregon we fail to see where it comes in In the first place no such indiscriminate borrowing is done Money is not so anxious to be loaned and when loaned is on the best sort of security always on well improved land The land in Oregon fit for farming in old settled districts has an assured value equal to land owned in the Middle and Northwestern states and we have no such raw country and green and ignorant community as this extract indicates This [illegible] writer says

I want to speak right here of the class who go West not in person but with pocket book and make investments in farm mortgages They know not what they do I care not in what state or territory they take them they stand fully an even chance of losing every dollar New territory is only roughly surveyed, the population is nomadic the deeds are drawn anyhow women sign as wife who are not the wife left at home fails to sign the conveyance The property is improperly described Every sort of unsoundness technical and otherwise characterizes all the records of almost every new country

The best of these mortgages are all taken on the ground by new residents The second pick is taken by large capitalists who scan the country with their agents and the refuse we get in the East Decoyed by that 'root of all evil' the 'love of money,' in the shape of exhorbitant interest, many a hard earned New England dollar is thus being thrown away and for every thousand thus taken pretty nearly half will find its way in the hands of middlemen for his statements must be paid for all along the line What the mortgager gets will half the time only tide him over a limited period, and having thus eaten himself up he often begins life again by abandoning his claim, and with two old mules hitched to a prairie wagon his children and wife stowed away among the other dunnage therein his old rifle hanging to the wagon bows two lean hunting dogs following he moves on in advance of the sheriff's summons I have had thirty four stations in my long army life mostly in and all over the West and I know whereof I affirm ' If only the mortgager were injured, it would be fair punishment for being such a noodle, but his family share his fault and further the state has absolutely suffered injury by this bleeding process

The farming districts of the great West are full to day of agents who visit the farm houses and tempt the farmers to take mortgages on their places and argue with them that the implements and stock they can buy with the money will enrich them It is their regular business to work up mortgage on farms and they are skilful in their temptations To one it is the acquisition of much coveted stock to another the erection of a better barn to a third the sending of a favorite daughter or son for a better education just as they can learn the best temptation from the neighbors Lender and borrower are both injured and the commonwealth thrive

HARVESTING WITHOUT BINDING

The Prairie Farmer has paid considerable attention to this subject and in a late number says We present this week illustrations of the method of harvesting and stacking of the Boyce Company of Tama City, Iowa It is claimed that by this plan the harvest may be gotten in successfully without the intervention of binding an important consideration in view of the high price of twine and the cost of handling the whole crop [illegible] after cutting We shall look with interest upon this departure in harvesting, if threshing can be done economically and there seems no reason why this cannot be accomplished

The grain is cut when it is in the proper state for the sickle by a machine carrying a twelve foot clip and two swaths are laid side by side and close together When properly cured for stacking it is taken up by the loader deposited on the wagons without intervention of hand power and by means of the stacker worked by horse power is placed in stack shed or barn as required It should reduce the cost of harvesting fully one half and the Iowa Alliance, the members of which are well known as practical farmers seems to indorse its work The claims were presented to the committees of the bodies from various states last spring and the opinion was expressed that this system furnished one solution of the twine combination problem The manufacturers claim that the cost of stacking per acre by this method is little more if any than the cost of twine at last spring's prices Those who intend to buy harvesting machinery would do well to fully inform themselves upon the subject by immediately addressing for full information on the subject, The Boyce Harvesting Machinery Company Tama City, Iowa'

The trouble and expense of binding grain added to the cost of the twine used forms a total on a large farm that is formidable to contemplate The world gets into practices and habits that become fixed principles and go on forever, it would seem, unquestioned, but this age is one of progress and the farmer as well as all other workers studies how to make the least cost do his work To cut grain and rake it as hay is raked involves no more labor than to make hay. It would do away with expensive reapers and simplify all the work of wheat or oat or barley harvest greatly The only question is if there would be loss in loose handling more than in bound grain If that loss would overgo the outlay occasioned for binding As a general thing grain in this valley is cut before it is liable to shatter easily and if it did not shatter there could be no loss The other question relates to the threshing whether the machine and ordinary hands can handle it bound grain to advantage The question has been settled and we can depend on it that before long the appliances for cutting and threshing unbound grain will be perfected and the matter thoroughly tested

QUESTIONS FOR FARMERS

The St Louis Journal of Agriculture propounds questions and asks its subscribers to answer them as we give them below The Oregonian recognizes that this matter possesses interest for a large proportion of its readers and invites answers in accordance with the following questions put by the Journal

We have a large number of correspondents and subscribers who are not regular correspondents who are serious thinkers upon a wide range of economic subjects We know that they are deeply interested in the welfare of the farmers and would be glad to promote the interests of the farming class in every way We ask all such to give this matter a little thought and to take the trouble to answer these questions No other class are so interested in this subject as farmers and there are no others upon whom will depend to so great an extent the working out of the subject to a successful issue

First Do farmers attach any importance to agricultural education as a means to enable them to better their condition?

Second What have been the principal reasons why agricultural colleges have been so poorly patronized by farmers sons

Third Would absolutely free tuition and the opportunity to pay other expenses by labor on the farm induce any more to seek education in these institutions

Fourth Is the prejudice against book farming growing less

Fifth Would the entire separation of the agricultural college from other institutions of learning so that there would be none but farm students do anything toward making the college more popular

We want replies to these questions from as many as will write them as we are anxious to know the feeling of the farmers toward the colleges and in regard to the whole subject of agricultural education Farmers please give the matter some thought and write to us

FOUND EXCLUSIVELY ON THE

CHARTER OAK

MARVELOUS RESULTS

LOSS IN SHRINKAGE OF MEATS.

Very few people know that the Shrinkage of Meats roasted in a close oven is from thirty five to forty per cent. All meat contains seventy five per cent of water and only twenty five per cent of solid matter, and the loss that is made in the roasting is made in the evaporation of the juice which is the VITAL PART OF MEAT.

Effect of the SOLID OVEN Door.

A TEN pound Sirloin medium or well-done, will be REDUCED TO SIX pounds four ounces of Roasted Meat showing a loss of three pounds and twelve ounces of juice. While the loss is 37½ per cent of the total weight, it shows the enormous LOSS OF FIFTY PER CENT OF THE JUICE.

Effect of WIRE GAUZE OVEN Door.

A TEN pound Sirloin medium or well-done, will be reduced to nine pounds and eight ounces of Roasted Meat, showing a loss of eight ounces of juice. While this loss is five per cent of the total weight, it shows the very small LOSS OF SEVEN PER CENT OF JUICE.

TAFFE DEFIES PENNOYER

The Governor Rains a Shower Upon the Ajaxan Duke of Celilo's Shield.

He Intends to Prosecute Him, and He Is Going to Make It Hot for the Fish Commission and the Prosecuting Attorney

Governor Pennoyer is determined to make somebody pay the fiddler for I. H Taffe's violation of the fishing laws in catching salmon out of season for the Spokane Falls sufferers.

Taffe has announced his determination to fight. He has buckled on his shield, grasped his sword and, Ajax like, is defying the lightning Here is a dispatch the governor received from him a few days ago

CELILO Or Aug 1

Sylvester Pennoyer Portland Put the state to all the expense you can while you are in power It won t be long you bet I H TAFFE.

It was on that day that the governor received a telegram informing him that Taffe was catching fish at 10 40 A M in open violation of law Complaint was made and he was arrested and is now under bonds to answer to the grand jury But that has nothing to do with the catch for the Spokane sufferers which is the great bone of contention

WHAT THE GOVERNOR IS GOING TO DO

"Do you intend to do anything in regard to the catching of fish on the 7th of this month, which was sanctioned by the fish commissioners?" asked an OREGONIAN reporter of the governor last evening

"Well," he replied, after a moments thought, "I have started in to stop the open violation of the fish law at Celilo and I propose now to keep right along until the thing is done I shall bring suit against Mr Taffe and have Fish Commissioners Reed and Campbell, who sanctioned the violation of the law as witnesses. Then I will bring suit against President Reed of the commission He has given bonds in the sum of $5000 faithfully to discharge the duties of his office, one of which is to see that the law is enforced There is positive proof that he openly assented to the violation of the law and his bonds are forfeit Then the prosecuting attorney of the seventh judicial district has plainly laid himself liable to a fine of $500 for a failure to prosecute a violation of the fish law I propose to go after him also If the juries of Wasco county will only do their simple duty in this matter the county treasury will be enriched in the sum of $6000 in the three cases and the law will be vindicated The question will then come before the Wasco county juries as to whether they will sustain the law or protect Mr Taffe in his open violation of the law But nothing can be done in the premises until the November term of court Then I propose to again attend court in Wasco county"

TAFFE'S CHARGE REFUTED.

"Mr Taffe in a communication charges that you allowed the lower Columbia canners to fish during the first week in August. Is that so?"

"That is all a mistake You remember that the waterway convention was held at Astoria during the first week in August three years ago Well, when I arrived in Astoria I learned that all the canneries, with one or two exceptions, were running as if there were no law against it and just as they had been doing for years previously This was a very great surprise to me as I had written to President Reed of the commission during July calling attention to the law and requesting him to enforce it strictly and I fully expected to see the law enforced You can then judge of my surprise upon seeing the law generally disregarded

I inquired for Mr Reed, and found that he was absent from home That evening I made an address at a serenade given to me when I alluded to the open violation of the law and stated that I had written to Mr Reed to come home and endeavor to enforce the law and that if he did not take steps by the following Monday I would myself, begin proceedings then for its enforcement. The canneries all closed down on that Saturday night

THE GOVERNOR HAS NO [illegible]

The statement in regard to my having an animosity against any one fisherman is equally erroneous There is not the least ground for that

Last year it was reported during the closed months of August and September that Mr Taffe was fishing at Celilo Three different times during those two months last year I requested the fish commissioners, upon what I considered trustworthy information, to visit Celilo and ascertain the fact whether fishing was being done or not, which they did upon each trip and reported each time by interview with THE OREGONIAN that no fishing was being done

At length positive proof came to me in September that Mr Taffe was running the wheel and at my urgent request a young man who had witnessed the catching of fish while a passenger train was delayed at Celilo made complaint against the owner of the wheel, and I accompanied the sheriff to Celilo when the arrest was made

When the train stopped at Celilo there were twenty two large boxes of salmon caught in defiance of law, standing on the platform ready for shipment With this bulky evidence of his violation of the law before us Mr. Taffe asked me why I had singled him out for arrest, when I replied it was solely because he was more openly and defiantly breaking the law than any one else and that others violated it only when they learned that he was doing so"

A QUEER VERDICT

What was the result of the arrest

Mr Taffe was bound over the next day to appear before the grand jury which indicted him and the trial was had last spring At the trial three witnesses swore positively as to his catching the fish as charged in the indictment They were all respectable truthful young men two of them residents of Wasco county There was no other or conflicting testimony, nor was there any effort made to impeach their testimony The prosecuting attorney strange to say did not say one word to the jury which returned with this direct and positive evidence before it and brought in a verdict of acquittal Such a verdict upon such testimony was a disgrace to Wasco county but I am positive that great stress was made in the jury room upon the fact that [illegible] half the fine would go to the prosecuting witness and that argument was the main cause for that most unjust verdict

"Now if the fish commissioners had not been so very near sighted as to overlook the main [illegible] of this notorious fact that there was an open violation of the law at Celilo and if they had brought suit as they ought to have done the objection could not have been made and the offender would undoubtedly have been convicted as he should have been"

HOW TO BET ON THE RACES

Mr Asa M Hamilton to Open a Bookmaking Establishment in the [illegible] Block

Mr Asa M Hamilton has returned from [illegible] and is now preparing to open a bookmaking establishment. It will be located in the [illegible] with the entrance on A street [illegible] will be a large blackboard.

Bookmaking [illegible] entirely to sport particularly horse racing. In the East it is the favorite method of betting and has cast the old pool selling [illegible] in the shade Its popularity is due to the fact that it is expedient [illegible] promptly. Besides the bookmaking plan [illegible] is the most expeditious and the most certain way of betting.

Mr Hamilton expects to open his establishment Thursday. He will be connected by a ticker in his office and will receive [illegible] service from Monmouth Park, Brighton Beach and [illegible] the night before the races he will receive the names of the horses to run with the weights they are to carry, which will be posted upon the board. He [illegible] the same will be distributed at the principal sporting centers the [illegible] morning.

While the race is being run its progress will be reported by wire, and the operator will call out the name of the leader at each quarter post The Western Union company gives prompt service in racing matters and the results will be known in Mr Hamilton's bookmaking establishment almost as soon as they are officially announced from the judge's stand at the race track in the East There is room on the blackboard for eleven races

Mr Hamilton will run his establishment while racing continues in the East He will not handle local races for the present, but may make books from California meeting He will make books on the Dempsey La Blanche glove contest.

BLOOD MONEY STILL PAID.

The Astoria Sailor Snatchers Have Received $75 and $87 50 a Man.

It Is Probable That the Seamen's Home in This City Will Be Re-opened to Assist in the Enforcement of the New Law

It is probable that the Sailors' Home on Third and D streets will be re opened within a few months There is a desire among the shippers and business men that the Home be re opened and the directors of the Portland Seamen's Friend Society have been talking the matter over, and have about come to the conclusion to do so

The Portland Hospital Association which now occupies the building is reluctant to vacate it though its lease expired last month The directors of the association and of the Seamen's Friend Society will hold a conference and will doubtless settle this question amicably

The Sailors' Home was originally started to protect the seamen against blood sucking sailor boarding house keepers There was no law to protect seamen until the last legislature passed a stringent one and it was impossible to keep the house running The sailor snatchers had everything their own way and nothing could stop them

If the home is re opened it will aid greatly in the enforcement of the new law which is not being obeyed or enforced in a manner suitable to the gentlemen who labored night and day at Salem last winter to see that it was not smothered by any of the caprices of legislation Authentic information has been received that the Astoria boarding house keepers have demanded and received $75, and even $87 50 blood money for furnishing men since the law went into effect There has been a clear violation of the law somewhere and some officer has been derelict in his duty The legal limit of the fee is $10 Recently two vessels from Portland managed to cross out without being molested by sailor boarding house keepers

As soon as Mayor DeLashmutt appoints a river officer to enforce the law the sailor snatchers may hear something from him

AT THE THEATERS.

Margaret Mather in Her Superb Portrayal of Juliet at New Park To Night—"Our Boarding House at the Musee"

To-night will begin an engagement at the New Park which should be a noteworthy one A brilliant light in the theatrical firmament will for the first time shed the rays of her finished art upon a Portland audience and that sublimest of love tragedies "Romeo and Juliet" will be interpreted by an artiste who is without a rival in the portrayal of its central figure

Margaret Mather in the role of Juliet has added another gem to her coronet of triumphs As it was the first in time so it remains the first in perfection of the brilliant repertory in which she has achieved such fame An exchange says of her splendid delineation

No one was prepared for the rich dramatic feast that awaited him and to many if not all, who witnessed the performance the Juliet was in the nature of a revelation No such acting of the part has ever been seen here before and it is doubtful if a more perfect embodiment of the poet's fancy has ever been seen anywhere If she had stepped upon the stage fresh from the poet's brain she could not have more perfectly realized the Juliet of our dreams In beauty of face and form Adelaide Neilson doubtless surpassed Miss Mather as she surpassed all other modern actresses but there the comparison must end In delicacy of interpretation in the portrayal of ardent passion chastened by sweet and maidenly purity in depth of feeling in intensity of expression in melody of voice in fact in everything that goes to make up an ideal Juliet Miss Mather stands unchallenged with scarcely a rival perhaps but without a peer She realizes to the fullest measure what a great German critic said of the play All that is most intoxicating in the odor of Southern spring all that is love gushing in the song of the nightingale or voluptuous in the first opening of the rose all alike breathe forth from this poem

Her voice is music itself Richard Grant White said of Pauline Markham that her voice was vocal velvet He should have heard Margaret Mather's voice and then blow out his brains in despair of coining a phrase to describe it It fairly intoxicates the ear Miss Mather's power to sway her audience is wonderful She captures them at the first glance and then holds them completely at her mercy spell bound by the magic of her grace and beauty and her wondrous art It would be impossible within the limits of this notice to bring into full relief the innumerable beauties of her Juliet It must suffice to point out here and there passages that will linger in the memory

The cast of characters for to night's performance of "Romeo and Juliet" is as follows

Mercutio friend of Romeo	J B Studley
Romeo, youngest of the house of Montague	Charles Wells
Paris a young nobleman	F J Sylvester
Capulet, head of the house at variance with Montague	Harry Eytinge
Benvolio friend to Romeo	[illegible]
Tybalt nephew to Lady Capulet	Harry H [illegible]
Friar Lawrence a Franciscan	[illegible] Jepson
Peter servant to Capulet	[illegible]
Balthasar, servant to Romeo	J F [illegible]
An Apothecary	[illegible] Rich
Page to Paris	Essie Tittell
Lady Capulet wife to Capulet	[illegible]
Nurse to Juliet	Mrs [illegible] Ferrell
JULIET daughter to Capulet	MARGARET MATHER

OUR BOARDING HOUSE To-night at the Musee theater the Essie Tittell Dramatic Company will produce this side splitting comedy which has made the entire country laugh We have seen the company in drama and melodrama, and they have pleased the large audiences which have nightly witnessed their earnest work and they will doubtless be equally successful in the comedy line

The Musee will continue to attract with the bearded lady Mlle Garretta's educated birds the specialty performances on the stage and antics of the frolicsome monkeys

MEATS ON ICE

A New Departure in the Manner of Catering to the City Trade

In years gone by the great objection urged against all meats sold in this market during the heated term of the summer months was that they were liable to be more or less tainted With the old manner of keeping meats it was almost impossible to avoid this contamination but the recent improvements made in storage closets for all kinds of meats has entirely done away with the difficulty One of the first in this city to avail himself of the latest and most improved methods of the meat refrigerators was Mr L Zimmerman the large wholesale butcher and packer with headquarters at 92 First street All of the meats that this enterprising butcher now supplies to his customers are fresh from his refrigerators and they are the primest sold meats in the market Mr Zimmerman during the summer months makes a big reduction in prices for the special benefit of the middle classes and it is this move that has made him one of the most popular butchers in this city

REDUCTION OF SALARIES

The following circular has been issued by the treasury department

Referring to department circular No 35 of April 16th last concerning the necessity for a reduction of 10 per cent in the salaries of keepers of lighthouses, the secretary desires to state that upon a careful examination of the correspondence had with congress at its last session concerning the estimated deficiency in the appropriation for salaries of keepers, and upon inquiry as to the verbal explanation made to the committee on appropriations of the house of representatives by a representative of the lighthouse board touching said estimated deficiency it is manifest that congress was not correctly advised as to the real nature and amount

The secretary desires further to state that congress did make an appropriation to meet said anticipated deficiency in accordance with the facts presented to it but the said appropriation was insufficient, hence the necessity for the reduction which has been made in the salaries of lightkeepers for the fiscal year 1889

The said circular of April 16th last, in so far as it is inconsistent herewith is hereby revoked" WILLIAM WINDOM

SUBURBAN HOME SITES.

A Charming Country To Be Opened Up by Projected Railways.

The Beauties of Lake La Camas and the Thousands of Acres of Rich Lands That Border Upon It

Twenty years ago there was nominally but little value in the property surrounding the city of Chicago particularly at a distance of fifteen to twenty miles from the city To day the city of Chicago is a second New York brought about by the admission of suburban towns within the incorporated limits of Chicago proper One half million of people were thus engulfed in one fell swoop as denizens of the great Chicago This half million were those who, by reason of high priced city property had been driven to suburban homes

Among these suburban towns there is one that had no existence of moment fifteen years ago but to day is the manufacturing center of Chicago Fifteen years ago the land in and around South Chicago and at the town of Pullman went begging at from $5 to $100 per acre Now it is worth as many thousand per acre Its value was created in the congregation of manufactories not one of which was there in 1870 After the location of the first industries quite a time intervened before the second came but there the producing concerns came in rapid succession and the homes of the owners their operatives together with Chicago's business men were built one after another until a town of its own sprang up All the intervening space between South Chicago and Chicago proper built up rapidly until one street Halstead was a continuous street, lined on either side with business houses and homes for a distance of twenty seven miles

The first locations were made on the Calumet river (along which there is now a dense business settlement) where the only means of communication was Lake Michigan Following this one railroad was built running through the sandy desert now known as South Chicago The stock yards five miles distant did have railroad communication then but trains ran it only long intervals Now trains run every thirty minutes

These facts should suggest the coming possibility of Portland's suburban property and of the near future will prove that some of the most desirable and money making real estate will be the distant property of to day For instance take some of the commanding hillside property on the Columbia river There are sites for homes on these foothills which if within fifty miles of Chicago or seventy five of New York would readily sell for as many thousands per acre as they now command hundreds But few spots on earth are more or so well favored in landscapes or magnificent views as these building sites

On the slopes opposite Lady's island and east of the town of La Camas are spots which command mountain views unsurpassed The mighty Columbia rests in peaceful yet sublime grandeur at the foot of graceful slopes The silver tipped mountain monarchs stand out enchantingly and will be a constant scene of splendor to the future denizens of these lovely home sites on the banks of the Columbia

Probably but few persons in Portland know that a beautiful lake of mountain spring water exists on the hilltop back of this town of La Camas and a handsomer body of tranquil water cannot be found anywhere This lake is over three miles long with a depth of forty to seventy feet of water making it the equal in magnificence to the lakes around Minneapolis and St Paul In one respect this lake presents an advantage over White Bear or Minnetonka lakes near St Paul in having naturally forest [illegible] receding from the shore line around the entire lake

Ten years from now in all probability this handsome lake—being the only one of its kind within a hundred miles of Portland, will be surrounded by the most attractive suburban homes of the coast Now that railroads are projected in this direction with a certainty of speedy completion suburban trains will soon follow The probability of a railroad bridge across the Columbia at Lady's island is assured In recent telegraph reports the statement is made that a railroad bridge franchise at this point has been granted by congress In fact no less than two lines of railway with a probable third are projected in this same direction Coupled with all this will be a line of river steamers which must follow all settlements all of which are destined to make this locality among the desirable suburban places in and around Portland In these latter days fast growing cities seem to establish suburban residences long prior to their [illegible] This is accounted for by the example of older cities whose wealthier citizens seek distant places for their homes, and the further knowledge that values enhance in suburban home property almost as rapidly as in city property

No one doubts the future of Portland Its rapid growth the past year has been the remark of everyone Our greatest faith is stimulated by the expressed conviction of visiting strangers who are unanimous in the declaration that Portland is destined to be among the great if not the greatest, cities on this coast These strangers pin their faith with their money as they have been among the chief purchasers of suburban property this year

So far as the locality above referred to is concerned it now possesses a stronger nucleus of manufactories than South Chicago had fifteen years ago A very large and successful paper mill is in operation at La Camas while the established water power at that point can be increased indefinitely with but little additional expenditure A sawmill and flouring mill are also located there Who can say that La Camas will not be the South Chicago of Portland in the near future

MR. VILLARD HAS A SCHEME

He Proposes the Issue of a Big Mortgage to Retire Northern Bonds

His Letter Was a Rude Shock to the Adherents of the Collateral Trust Loan Plan—A Lower Rate of Interest Proposed

THE OREGONIAN a few days ago had a New York dispatch which told of Henry Villard's new $160 000 000 consolidated mortgage scheme Full details are obtainable in the following special to the Chicago Tribune of the 14th

Henry Villard to-day sent a letter signed with his name only to each of the directors of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company suggesting a financial plan by which he proposes the issue of a consolidated mortgage of $160 000 000 with which to retire all of the company's outstanding bonds

At a meeting of the Northern Pacific railroad's finance committee held last week a subcommittee of five was appointed consisting of Messrs Oaks Harris Villard, Billings and C B Wright to draw up a plan containing the general features of the much talked about $15 000 000 collateral trust loan scheme to be submitted to the finance committee at its meeting to morrow the finance committee to report in turn on the subject to the directors to morrow

Although the members of the finance committee have persistently maintained that no definite plan has either been agreed upon or even discussed it has been quite as persistently rumored on Wall street that the committee had informally decided on a plan providing for the $15 000 000 collateral trust loan above mentioned All that was necessary according to rumors to complete the plan was its formal presentation by the subcommittee to the finance committee its ratification by the latter body and subsequent presentation to the board of directors for approval In short the street persisted in believing that the finance committee had done everything but formally agree upon a plan

Mr Villard's letter was rather a rude shock to the people who had made up their minds that the $15 000 000 collateral trust loan plan had been determined upon and would be rushed through at to morrow's meeting The letter was marked private and confidential, but with the usual perversity of man some one broke faith and made it public The street got hold of it before the close of business and a great many people made up their minds that it would probably prove the death blow of the collateral trust loan plan

The present bonded indebtedness of the Northern Pacific main line is about $93 000 000 and that of the branch lines and properties about $27 000 000 making a total of about $120 000 000 The Villard proposition provides of course for a lower rate of interest for the new issue under the $160 000 000 blanket mortgage than that now pledged under the existing bonds It will be seen that after the $120 000 000 outstanding bonds have been taken up by the blanket mortgage there will still remain $40 000 000 in excess The presumption is that this is intended to be used partly in premiums to compensate holders for the surrender of higher interest bonds and partly for the payment of commissions to foreign bankers on the placing of the new consols

Mr Villard's scheme provides for so stupendous a transformation issue that it seems scarcely possible that it can meet with the approval either of the board of directors or of the stockholders of the company Nevertheless even if it does not meet with the approval of the committee at to morrow's meeting it may serve its not unlikely purpose of defeating the collateral trust loan scheme A director of the Northern Pacific railroad said this afternoon that in his opinion the street had gathered a wrong impression as to Mr Villard's motives in sending out this letter

"Mr Villard," he continued "has no desire to bully us into accepting his scheme in preference to any other He has merely made the suggestion of a $160 000,000 blanket mortgage as a possible outcome from our difficulties I can't predict what the finance committee may decide on to morrow and whether they will reject or approve Villard's scheme I don't think Mr Villard much cares whether it is adopted or not as long as we pull successfully through He has been actuated by a desire to make a good job out of a bad one and nothing more"

WHAT MR LITT IS DOING IN PARIS

The following letter was received yesterday from Mr Litt who is now in Paris

PARIS Aug 1 1889

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Please say to your many readers and my patrons that since my arrival here I have been on my feet eighteen hours a day seeking the right houses to purchase my fall stock and if my judgment does not go back on me I will be in Portland in September with the best display of cloaks, dress goods and trimmings ever shown on the Pacific coast I have secured the sole agency for ladies wrappers of which full notice will be given on my arrival I have visited the exposition and think the American display very poor while the French excel in everything this year I have met many relatives here who have grown to manhood and womanhood since I left my native place (Strasburg) twenty nine years ago I will be home early in September H B LITT

27 PER CENT. DIFFERENCE.

THE "ROYAL" THE STRONGEST AND PUREST BAKING POWDER.

Attention has been called to publications from the the Price Baking Powder Co, the obvious purpose of which was to rid themselves of the recent exposure of the inferiority or low test of the baking powder manufactured by that house

As to whether the Price baking powder is equal to the "Royal," the truth is that when the cans were purchased on the open market and examined by Prof Chandler, of the New York Board of Health, the report revealed the fact that Price's powder contained twenty seven per cent. less strength than the "Royal"

When compared in money value, this difference would be as follows

One pound can Royal Baking Powder worth 50 cents

One pound can Price's worth 36 cents

The Royal Baking Powder Company have been fighting for years past to break up the practice of substituting Alum, Phosphates, Lime, etc, as cheap substitutes for cream tartar, as well as short weights and low test in baking powders and the "stop thief" cry will not prevent the exposure of all who are engaged in the nefarious business of palming upon the public cheap or injurious baking powders at the same price at which a pure and wholesome article is sold

The Royal Baking Powder has the commendation of the most noted chemists in the country for its purity and freedom from every substance of an injurious nature, being manufactured from grape cream tartar, in which no lime, alum or impurity exists.
